

A REAL EASTER PARADE

More than a million persons jammed New York's Fifth Avenue Sunday for the traditional Easter Parade. St. Patrick's Cathedral. Eighty-degree weather brought out finest in finery.

Vehicular traffic was stopped for several hours as a section of the avenue was blocked by paraders, Victorians, too—although no organized parade was held—were decked out in their finest, despite dull weather. (AP Wirephoto.)

Easter Worship Attracts Millions Across Canada

casions for Canadians to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the rebirth of nature.

Worship began in the Atlantic provinces Saturday night when the country's Roman Catholics attended midnight mass. By Sunday evening millions of Canadians of Christian faith had been to church.

The weather was good for Easter parading in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec and most places in the Atlantic provinces. British Columbia's mainland, however, was drenched with heavy rains, and Victoria's Easter was cold and dull, with wind most of the day and showers in the afternoon.

In Montreal St. Jude's Anglican Church, damaged by fire four weeks ago, was re-opened for Easter services and parishioners worshipped obliviously to the charred ruins. Afop Mount Royal, hundreds gathered in the chalet for the 26th annual Easter sunrise service. In the afternoon more than 20,000 fashion-conscious Montrealers, some displaying the latest creations from Paris, London, Rome and New York, promenaded through the parks.

3,000 LILIES
Toronto, basking in hot sunshine, staged a large Easter parade which included beautiful girls, well-dressed dogs and 1957 model automobiles. The commercial aspect—a group of midtown businessmen sponsored the parade—was offset by church services attended by thousands during the morning.

Crowds were lined up for a block outside Timothy Eaton Memorial Church before 10:30 a.m. Perhaps the best-attended services were at First Presbyterian Church in Picot, N.S., where 3,000 lilies were placed again this year by a Bermuda man who refuses to permit his name to be disclosed. More than 5,000 persons attended four services.

A gusty wind gave feminine strollers anxious moments as it tugged at their frilly dresses while they strolled Parliament Hill in Ottawa. The wind also offered protection to the ladies, however, since male observers were blinded by dust.

'HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU'

Queen Feted by Crowd of 5,000 —Princess Beats Time With Jig

(From CP and UP Dispatches)
LONDON (UP) — Queen Elizabeth, who had planned to celebrate her 31st birthday anniversary in private Sunday, was serenaded by about 5,000 persons who jammed the east terrace of Windsor Castle to sing "Happy Birthday to You."

Otherwise it was a quiet day for the Queen, who attended Easter services in Windsor Castle's St. George's Chapel.

Appearing briefly at a window in the east terrace of the castle, the Queen, Prince Philip and their two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, smiled and waved to the crowd massed around the castle to hear a concert by the bands of the Life Guards and the Grenadier Guards and to see the monarch.

Princess Anne seemed the most interested in the bands, darting from one window to another. When one of the bands played a lively tune, she performed an impromptu jig until her father smilingly called her away.

Prince Charles seemed more interested in the Life Guards band, whose shining brass helmets caught the sun in a blaze of gold. The Queen Mother, sitting next to Princess Margaret, was seen beating time to the music.

After the concert was over and the Royal Family had withdrawn, Prince Charles rushed back to the window for another look at the crowds.

Earlier, the Queen accepted gifts from Prince Charles and Princess Anne which they had bought out of their own pocket money. The nature of the gifts was not disclosed.

Prince Philip gave his wife his customary gift of a piece of jewelry which he is believed to have designed himself.

At breakfast the Queen opened her other gifts and looked through some of the hundreds of messages of congratulations from all over the world.

Afterward, she and her family went to St. George's Chapel for Easter services.

Because her birthday officially celebrated June 13 this year, fell on Easter Sunday, the traditional gun salutes were postponed until today.

Easter Death Toll 55

Traffic Mishaps Heavy in East

By The Canadian Press
At least 55 Canadians died violently during the three-day Easter holiday weekend.

Traffic accidents were by far the biggest killers as warm weather across most of the country lured motorists by the thousands.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday shows highway mishaps accounted for 37 dead. There were eight drownings and 10 fatalities from miscellaneous causes such as falls, asphyxiations and accidental shootings. No fire deaths were recorded, and industrial accidents are not included in the count.

Ontario recorded the highest toll, with 14 traffic victims and two drownings among its 19 dead. Quebec had 15 fatalities, 10 in traffic and three drownings. B.C. had three fatalities, one in traffic, all on Saturday.

No holiday fatalities were reported from Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

Twelve accidental deaths were reported in the four western provinces. Traffic mishaps claimed eight lives, two persons were killed in railway accidents, one was crushed by logs and one was accidentally shot.

Saskatchewan had the highest number of accidental deaths, where five persons were killed in traffic mishaps and one died when crushed by the wheels of a freight train.

PLUNGE THROUGH BRIDGE
Three men were killed late Thursday night when a car in which they were riding plunged through a bridge railing and into the Souris River near Estevan in southeastern Saskatchewan.

The victims were identified as Arthur David Coffey, 25, of Devon, Alta.; Lloyd Robert Craig, 19, of Estevan and Calgary; and Victor Maurice Germain, 22, of Estevan.

Marvin Devitt, 17, died in hospital in Saskatoon eight hours after his motorcycle and a truck crashed Saturday night at a Saskatoon intersection. Melvin Carson, 18, was killed when his car rolled into a ditch on a municipal road near his home at Aberdeen, 25 miles northwest of Saskatoon.

The other Saskatchewan fatality was Mike Bosovich, 33, a mental patient from the Saskatoon hospital, who was killed by a freight train in Weyburn Sunday. He was reported missing from the mental institution Saturday.

ROYAL WEDDING RUMORED

A marriage is said to be in the making between the Duke of Kent, 21, and Crown Princess Beatrix, 18, of The Netherlands. Dulles Blasts Russ 'Despotism' In Satellites

NEW YORK (AP)—State Secretary Dulles bluntly told Russia today that the United States seeks "the liberation of the captive nations." He said "the pressures of liberty are rising" within the Soviet bloc.

In an address prepared for the annual Associated Press luncheon, Dulles also appealed to the U.S. Congress and the American people to preserve the administration's foreign military and economic aid programs against those with "a zeal to economize." He evidently referred to some members of Congress.

He also expressed confidence that Soviet "threats," such as have recently been directed against allied powers in Europe because of their membership in the Atlantic Alliance, "will not disintegrate the collective defense systems of the free world."

Dulles' address had the full advance approval of President Eisenhower, who read it at his Augusta, Ga., vacation headquarters. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower also had discussed it by telephone with Dulles.

The address was Dulles' first major review of U.S. foreign policy since last fall.

Dulles said the question of how the U.S. should deal with Communist "despotism" is not an easy one to answer. The

Girls, Girls! Lose 10 Pounds On 9-Day Diet

Girls! Shed five or 10 pounds in a few days, and be lithe and slender as a spring reed. "No need to feel and look as though you had stuffed too much," says Josephine Lowman. "Often a woman is just 10 pounds away from a lovely figure."

Follow her nine-day diet to a youthful silhouette. The first day's menu are shown tonight on Page 14. You'll find this is no "curl up and die" routine, but a practical, modern way to reduce while eating wholesome meals.

Good luck! And stick to it. Nine days isn't so long.

By reports from Toronto, Mister Bennett seems to be a very "promising" campaigner. Why not combine the current centennial project with the next one, then the council's will have time to make up their minds.

Looks like the Middle East tends more to be the middle East than the model East.

Climax Expected In Next 24 Hours

By United Press

A quarrel within Jordan's patchwork cabinet and mounting pressure from both Syria and Egypt signalled a new crisis for King Hussein's government today—possibly within the next 24 hours.

Details of events inside Jordan were screened by strict military censorship and left further in doubt by a flood of unconfirmed dispatches originating both in Cairo newspapers and in the Egyptian government-owned Mid-East News Agency.

The Mid-East News Agency distributed a report Sunday evening that Iraqi troops had moved into Jordan and taken up positions near Nafta, a key point straddling the main route between Damascus, Syria, and Amman, capital of Jordan.

The report placed the Iraqi forces close to 3,000 Syrian troops which have been in Jordan since the eruption of the

ON-THE-SPOT WITH ALSOP FROM JORDAN

The eyes of the world today are centred on Jordan, the little kingdom at the eastern end of the Mediterranean which might well become the focal point of a new world war. On Page 4 of this issue of The Times, Joseph Alsop, one of North America's top reporters, gives an on-the-spot explanation of the whole situation.

Suez Canal crisis and the Israeli invasion of Egypt's Sinai Desert.

Arab Move Would Involve Israel

Officials in both Amman and Baghdad promptly denied the report of Iraqi troop movements—which, if true, could presage a move by Jordan's larger Arab neighbors to take over her territories and divide them among themselves. Any such Arab move would be certain to bring Israel into the conflict.

The cabinet quarrel came in a difference of views between Jordanian Premier Hussein Khalidi and his predecessor, Suleiman Nabulsi, over the questions of alleged foreign interference in the country's affairs and relations with Russia.

Khalidi said at a news conference Sunday that he "does not believe" a statement by Nabulsi that "foreign military attaches" and foreign diplomats were conspiring to mislead Hussein.

Eisenhower Envoy May Hold Key

In the Morris interview, Khalidi also declared: "There has been a delay... due to constitutional procedures" in the aid promised by Egypt and Syria to replace Britain's just-ended military and economic grants of more than $30,000,000 a year. However, a later report said both Syria and Egypt deposited substantial sums to Jordan's credit today.

2—Jordan's attitude on American aid under the Eisenhower doctrine will depend on what special envoy James P. Richards "says and what explanation he will give" when he reaches Amman.

3—He did not believe U.S. Ambassador Lester Mallory had been involved in any way in the Jordan crisis. "Mallory is a friend of mine and I don't think he would do such a thing," he said.

Khalidi declined to discuss the future of Syrian and Saudi Arabian troops who entered Jordan at the time of Israel's invasion of the Sinai Desert.

But he said flatly that the government, and not anyone else, would determine the future of Jordan's relations abroad.

There were reports that the so-called "National Guidance Committee" meeting in Nabulus tonight would demand Mallory's recall for his alleged meddling in Jordan's affairs. Nabulus is one of the main towns in Jordan west of the Jordan River.

Russ to Stop Nuclear Tests?

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says Russia is contemplating a temporary unilateral suspension of nuclear tests.

The Liberal newspaper carries the report in a front-page story quoting a "Communist diplomatic source."

British diplomatic quarters have speculated that Russia might make such a move to embarrass Britain in advance of the first British hydrogen bomb tests.

Russia has conducted at least five nuclear tests this month. The Manchester Guardian says that now that these tests appear to have been completed, Moscow may offer a temporary suspension of tests "irrespective of whether agreement on this can be reached with the West."

Socreds Will Win Balance Of Power, Predicts Bennett

(From Times News Services)

QUEBEC CITY—Premier W. A. C. Bennett arrived here today confident of Social Credit's chances in the federal election and apparently undismayed by reports skeptical of the success of the party's first big foray into eastern politics.

He said here today Social Credit will win the balance of power in the June 10 federal voting, and will form the government after the next election four or five years hence.

Social Credit's opening guns were fired Thursday night at a much-ballyhooed rally in Toronto's Massey Hall, and some observers say they went off with a fizzle.

In Quebec to pay a "courtesy call" on Premier Maurice Duplessis, Mr. Bennett said at a news conference this morning that "the Liberal party will lose its present majority due to losses in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada, and the Social Credit party will gain the 40 seats more it needs to gain the balance of power."

—20 FEET UP

OTTAWA (CP)—Barbara Fraser, 30, of Ottawa ended up on telephone wires 20 feet above ground after she was thrown from a car that careened off a highway near here and cartwheeled along a ditch.

Police arrived about eight minutes later in time to see the woman tumble to the ground. She was not injured by the fall.

Estimates of the number of persons who came to Yponto's Massey Hall Thursday night to hear the party's big lights—National Leader Solon Low, Alberta Premier E. C. Manning and Mr. Bennett—ranged from 1,200 to 1,800.

The Socreds had bargained on an overflow crowd in the 2,500-seat Massey Hall. A loudspeaker installed outside the doors was not needed. Cost of extensive newspaper and radio advertising campaign to drum up interest in the rally is estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000.

The meeting was accompanied by the western, Socred trap-trappings of musicians and entertainers, but one-quarter of the audience left before the show was over.

Party 'Turncoat' Says Got 'Bellyful' On Russia Visit

LONDON (Reuters)—Angry scenes and shouts of "swine" and "enemy" marked the last day of the British Communist Party conference here today.

The row stemmed from a speech Sunday by Professor Hyman Levy, mathematician and philosopher, who referred to the "terrible things" that have happened in Russia and said that during a two-week visit there "I got a bellyful to last me the rest of my life."

Declaring that British Communist leaders knew what was going on but kept it from the people, Levy said: "I am not going to be a member of a party that is going to be deluded by its leaders."

Replied to the speech, Andrew Rothstein, a British journalist, berated "spineless intellectuals."

In reference to the number of Communists who had written to or for the non-Communist press protesting events in Hungary last year, he said revisionists of the early days of communism did not have at their disposal the immense resources of the capitalist press.

Journalist Labelled 'Swine'

"The capitalist press was always ready to give hospitality to the enemies of the party, to dissenting members," he said amid applause and shouts of disapproval.

At this point John McLoughlin, a shop steward who was condemned and dismissed for causing a major strike recently at a British automobile plant, shouted:

"You are the enemy, you lying old swine."

The party then went on to discuss a report on inner party democracy.

Christopher Hill, lecturer in English history at Oxford, moving a key amendment in the struggle by the reformers in the party to make their views heard, criticized a tendency towards authoritarianism, a distrust towards the rank-and-file and a fear of discussion in the party. He accused the party of living in a smug little world of its own inventions and said the most important speech so far made at the conference was when Levy "let some fresh air into this world."

The national executive, he said, considered that the party, now numbering 27,000, had lost only a handful of members because of the events in Hungary. But 7,000 had left.

"If three or more handfuls of that size were to go there would not be a party," he said. Hill added that the leadership should not be made a scapegoat.

"We are all responsible for the state the party has got into."

LPP 'Rebels' Out; Buck Solid Choice

TORONTO (CP)—Both policy and leadership appeared firmly in the grip of Tim Buck today as the sixth national convention of the Labor-Progressive party entered its climax with two of his enemies already eliminated from the national committee.

The convention's 169 delegates in closed session Sunday night voted for a new 51-member ruling body of Canadian communism. The result is to be announced today before the election for national leader and a final vote on party policy.

They are John Stewart, who quit as editor of the weekly Canadian Tribune last week because he said he was forced to adhere too closely to the party line, and Sam Lipshitz, former editor of the Canadian Jewish Weekly, who said before the convention began that policy changes must be accompanied by a change in leadership.

A party source said both men did not stand for re-election. Mr. Stewart could not be reached for comment and Mr. Lipshitz said he would wait until the convention ended before stating his reasons.

All other top rebels stood for re-election. These include J. B.

Salsberg, one-time member of the Ontario legislature who made a one-hour speech on behalf of the dissidents Saturday, and Stewart Smith, former Ontario party leader.

Their re-election is not assured. Both were ousted from the committee's executive last October after they asked that Mr. Buck be replaced by the collective leadership of a secretariat until the convention.

It is not even certain Mr. Buck will have an opponent in the election for national leader today. Members of the anti-Buck group would not say whether a dissident candidate would be nominated.

Delegates have yet to agree upon a new party policy, despite more than 20 speeches during day and night sessions since Friday, an LPP spokesman said. Before the convention ends today they must adopt a federal election platform and a new constitution, in addition to deciding whether to accept the contentious draft policy resolution submitted by the executive.

The meetings are closed to the press. It was not known when the party would make available news of the sessions.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Postman Bitten By 'Live' Cargo

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—For veteran letter carrier E. P. Gault it was his first "live" cargo in 25 years.

Gault was greeted with a harmless pinch on the hand by a live duck Saturday when he opened a street mailbox. He had the post office deliver the duck to its proper habitat at City Park Lake.

TOKYO (Reuters)—A ship collided with a bus near Tokyo.

The driver claimed the sailing vessel had deliberately rammed him, breaking a window, when he came alongside a jetty in Misaki City.

Police had to be called to settle the argument which lasted four hours.

The driver and the skipper were each ordered to pay half the cost of the window.

LIMOGES, France (CP)—Because civic authorities were a little stuffy about it, baby Rosemonde Orsola went to her christening in her mother's arms instead of being carried by her father on a motorcycle along a tightrope tied to a church belfry.

The father, circus star Raymond Orsola, had practiced for a week whipping over a cable, 350 feet above the town's main square.

But today, after town authorities said absolutely no, Orsola attended the ceremony at ordinary ground level.

Orsola is the great-grandson of Blondin, the man who crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope without the aid of a baby.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Mayor Edward Voorde got an overtime parking ticket while doing some last-minute shopping for an Easter tie. He took the $2 tie he had purchased back to the store, exchanged it for a $1 tie and put away the refund to pay his $1 parking ticket.

BENNETT

speech was reported to have been interrupted 47 times by applause; reporters present described the general tenor of the meeting as unfriendly.

About one-quarter of the audience comprised Social Credit members.

HECKLED

Mr. Bennett was heckled frequently but, as usual, was more than able to handle his own.

The party has thrown all its resources into the "on to Ottawa" campaign under the guidance of B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Lack of interest in the Toronto rally must have been a disappointment to Social Credit leaders, because they realize they must break into Ontario and Quebec to make any important gains.

Between the two provinces have 160 seats in the 265-seat Commons.

But Premier Bennett appeared unconcerned at his news conference here.

Social Credit will win the next federal election in four or five years, he said.

50% TAX CUT

"When we come to power at Ottawa we shall reduce by 50 per cent the personal income tax to give each Canadian more take-home pay," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit will run candidates in most of Quebec's ridings.

He declined to comment on the status of the Union des Electeurs, the Quebec group from which the national Social Credit party has dissociated itself.

L'Union des Electeurs, which describes itself as a Social Credit organization, ran candidates in all provincial ridings in the 1948 provincial election but failed to elect one. The group now limits its political activities to supporting some candidates of other parties, including Liberals.

BOY, 4, BELIEVED DROWNED

Dog Won't Leave Scene Where Master Missing

STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—For nearly a week a big Labrador retriever has kept a vigil on the ice but usually just sits on the bank and stares at the water.

A stray that wandered on to the McPhee farm a year ago, the dog was named Butch and became the boy's constant companion. Alexander disappeared last Monday.

His tracks were traced to the river bank. Dragging operations have been under way since.

The dog refuses to leave the river bank in the area 18 miles west of Port Arthur. Sometimes it goes out in boats with the police but usually just sits on the bank and stares at the water.

They were commenting on a Washington announcement that the U.S. has bowed to British and Japanese pressure and agreed to ease curbs on Red China trade.

'Mac' Ducks Bob-a-Nobs From Behind Big Cigar

CHELMWOOD GATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan took refuge behind a few yards of real red tape Sunday when his wife, Lady Dorothy, opened their country home to Easter holiday-makers.

What a scramble there was as thousands of "bob-a-nobs" (one shilling a head) customers swarmed over the lawns of the "Macs" country home, peered through the windows of the prime minister's study and patted his numerous grandchildren on the head.

After signing one or two autographs, he tipped his hat, apologized to the visitors for the poor showing of the daffodils, stuffed an enormous Churchillian cigar in his mouth and ducked behind some red tape which cordoned off the summer house from the public.

In the summer house he settled down to talking and smoking with his lunch guest, Lord Woolton, while an occasional stray visitor stared at them through a bush or from behind a tree.

The rest of the Macmillans—and there were dozens of them, what with sons and daughters and sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and grandchildren—ran themselves to a frazzle helping Lady Dorothy sell tickets and show folks around. In tweed skirt, beige sweater and sensible shoes, Lady Dorothy organized her crew, gave advice on how to sell the tickets faster.

"Rattle the money," she told a six-year-old grandson. "It attracts attention."

All the money was going to two of Lady Dorothy's favorite charities. It was the first time the Macmillan home, with its fine gardens, had been opened to the public since 1941.

Boy Stole From Dad To 'Pay Off' Gang

NEW YORK (AP)—A frightened boy looted his father's Brooklyn grocery store of nearly $6,000 in a year to pay off a gang of teenagers, police say.

The boy, Raymond Quinones, 15, overcame his fear of reprisal and pleaded to police for help Saturday. Shortly before, his father said he told the family the store was losing so much money that he would have to close.

Police set a trap in the store, giving Raymond marked $10 bills and watching from behind a counter while he handed the money to one of the gang's collectors.

That led to the arrest of the alleged leader of the extortion racket, John J. Gebbia, 18, and three younger boys who served as collectors. Gebbia was charged with extortion, the three younger boys with juvenile delinquency.

Raymond said the youths approached him in April, 1956, and demanded weekly payments from the grocery. The payments ranged from $5 to $15 at first. Recently they ran to $80 a week.

Raymond said two of the gang pressed a knife to his throat on one occasion and threatened: "If you don't give us money we will kill your mother or sister."

Ike-Stassen Parley Raises Arms Cut Hope

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower will confer here Tuesday with his disarmament adviser amid fresh indications that the United States now sees some chance for agreement with Russia on a first step toward disarmament.

Harold E. Stassen is scheduled to arrive by plane from Washington tonight for a talk with the vacationing president Tuesday morning. After the session at the Augusta National Golf Club Stassen will start back to London for resumption of negotiations of a United Nations subcommittee seeking to bring the East-West atomic arms race under control.

CONTINUED EFFORT

Recess of the London negotiations for the Easter weekend brought Stassen to Washington Saturday for an interim report to State Secretary Dulles and other key administration officials. At the conclusion of that meeting the government put out a statement calling for a continued "serious effort to reach an initial partial agreement for a first step" toward disarmament with safeguards for inspection and control.

In announcing plans for the Eisenhower — Stassen conference James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said Dulles had recommended that Stassen make a personal report to the president.

That decision appears significant for two reasons.

In the first place, Dulles and Stassen obviously believe the status of the London negotiations warrants Eisenhower's personal attention.

SWITCH PLANS

Secondly, only a few weeks ago the White House announced that in the future Stassen no longer would report directly to the president but to Dulles, who would keep Eisenhower advised regarding any disarmament developments.

Dulles said in explanation at the time that he and Eisenhower had agreed that the situation in that field had reached a point where the state department should have policy supervision.

In response to questions, Hagerty said the Stassen visit would be mainly in the nature of a progress report on the London talks. But he did not rule out the possibility that the president might offer some suggestions for Stassen to put before the London conference when it resumes Wednesday.

NEW ATOMIC RADIATION HAZARD SEEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Possibility of a hitherto-unsuspected hereditary hazard from atomic radiation was reported today by an Atomic Energy Commission scientist.

New evidence from mouse tests, said Dr. W. L. Russell, suggests the possibility that radiation may tend to shorten the life span not only of the person receiving it but also of children sired by exposed individuals.

Up to now, shortening of the life span has been considered a potential hazard only for persons directly exposed.

JAPANESE SCIENTIST FEARS

World Threatened By Russ A-Blast

TOKYO (Reuters)—A Japanese scientist Sunday claimed Russia exploded a new type of nuclear ground bomb which produces a deadly alpha ray fallout and a serious danger to mankind.

Prof. Takanobu Shiokawa of Shizuoka University announced his theory after analyzing radioactive dust which fell over Japan last Wednesday.

Shiokawa said the new ground bomb released a heavy fall-out of neptunium-239 and plutonium-239—a long-living isotope which gives off a deadly alpha ray.

The new bomb was not "clean"—one with limited fall-out—and the scattering of plutonium-239 could become a serious danger to mankind, he added. It takes 24,000 years for the isotope to fade to half strength.

Plutonium-239 is produced from neptunium-239, which is created when slow-speed neutrons collide with uranium-238.

Fall-out dust tested in Japan April 17 contained 33 per cent elements which were insoluble in acid. The United States Bikini tests produced fall-outs with 10 to 20 per cent insoluble elements.

The high percentage of insoluble elements in the Soviet fall-out indicated the explosion had occurred on or near the ground, Shiokawa said.

U.S. Air Tourist Sucked Out Window

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Iraqi officials combed through desert wastes today for the body of an American apparently blown through the shattered window of a French airliner 18,000 feet above Iraq.

The American, identified by police as J. R. Nash of Memphis, Tenn., was en route from Tehran to Istanbul when the bizarre accident occurred.

The 31-year-old bachelor with a passion for travel was on the last leg of an aerial round-the-world trip when he disappeared Saturday night.

The Paris spokesman and Air France officials here gave this version: The four-engined Constellation was about 25 miles north of Kirkuk, northern Iraq, when the third window on the right side of the plane burst "with a loud explosion." Nash, asleep in the seat next to the window, was sucked out of the plane.

The plane filled with steam as frigid air from outside poured into the heated cabin. When the air cleared, passengers noticed that Nash was missing.

The plane descended to a lower level while shivering passengers crowded into the front of the craft until it arrived at Istanbul.

Shock Treatment

A FEW DAYS AGO THE READERS of The Times, of London—the politicians, the businessmen, the intellectuals and what are loosely called the governing classes of Britain—must have received a severe shock.

Perhaps for the first time in its long history The Times' famous editorial "leader" carried no headline, only a solid, slanting line of black ink. The editors had evidently chosen this method of shock treatment to indicate their feelings about the state of Britain. And the leader went on to express views about Britain's prospects that are truly shocking.

Coming from The Times, that most factual, conventional and perhaps complacent organ of British civilization, these stark opinions are worth serious thought.

Looking back over the postwar era in Britain, The Times says bluntly that "the twelve years' descent towards the abyss will still have no end" unless the nation drastically changes its ways.

The Times was speaking then in the middle of a spreading strike which, if continued, would have proved ruinous. If the strike were settled by large wage increases the result, said The Times, would "drain the strength of sterling more slowly, not less surely." So the strike has been settled for the moment. The inevitable drain of higher manufacturing costs must certainly drain Britain's economic strength.

For Britain, says The Times, "is living behind a shield of borrowed assets and on borrowed time." Moreover, the capacity to borrow has been exhausted. "The pound can now be saved only by our efforts—and they will have to be better efforts than we have yet managed."

Will such efforts now appear? The Times has little hope on that score. No Government since the war, it asserts, has learned even the "elementary lessons" of Britain's danger. Instead "if not blindly, then with blinkers" successive Governments have "gone down the inflationary slope."

These are the facts—perhaps inentionally exaggerated to shock the public but essentially true—that the present Government undoubtedly has in mind as it attempts, against almost impossible difficulty, to revise the British economy, to reduce the deadweight burden of defence and, by a rather feeble tax gesture, to encourage initiative.

For this it is condemned by its enemies as a rich man's Government, the enemy of the poor. What critics of this sort, not only in Britain but elsewhere, forget is that the poor, much more than the rich, will suffer the consequences of inflation and its inevitable aftermath of deflation. If Britain is indeed treading a slippery slope, as The Times says, the "abyss" awaits everybody.

The prognosis announced by London's greatest newspaper must disturb every Canadian who understands Britain's importance to us, and to the whole free world. But shock treatment probably is needed. The Times is only saying aloud what the thoughtful economists of Britain have been saying privately for a long time.

Experts may quarrel about the details; the general nature of Britain's dilemma is beyond question. We should not forget in Canada, however, that with all our wealth we also have grave dilemmas. If our situation is incomparably easier than Britain's, we too are living far beyond our immediate means, inflating our economy, piling up gigantic foreign debt and temporarily trying to do more and consume more than our resources yet allow.

Britain's problems, though far from insoluble, will not be solved quickly or, as The Times says, without a massive resurgence of the nation's energies. Our problems, we have good reason to believe, are temporary and no more than the pains of rapid but sound growth.

Nevertheless, we have problems at the moment which many politicians of all parties are trying to disguise or distort. Perhaps The Times' extraordinary leader, widely reported in this country, will persuade us to take a hard look at them.

A 'Lift' for UBC

MR. AND MRS. LEON T. KOERNER and the B.C. Electric have moved generously and quickly to accept Premier Bennett's challenge to aid the University of British Columbia.

The Government has pledged itself to match any amount given privately to Point Grey up to a total of $5,000,000. The Koerners have undertaken to provide $500,000 for a new faculty centre. The gift follows by half a day one of $250,000 from the power company to assist the university.

These are impressive gestures. They establish a splendid pattern for donations to the capital gift fund to finance expansion and development of campus facilities. By its previous action, industry has indicated an honest intention to help the university. The Koerner and B.C. Electric contributions will doubtless be followed by other substantial sums from other industrial sources. With this start, the drive for a minimum of $5,000,000 seems entirely reasonable.

Through the campaign, as Chancellor-elect A. E. Grauer stated, recognition will be shown by corporations and individuals "that in giving financial assistance to education, they are in fact reinforcing the structure of a free society."

The outlook is encouraging. In addition to the prospective gift fund total, matched by the province to bring it up to $10,000,000, the university has also received a pledge of $10,000,000 over 10 years from the Government and another $5,000,000 from the Federal Government. The combined $25,000,000 sum looks large, but not in comparison to the needs of the university.

June Is Bustin' Out All Over

IT GOES TO THEIR HEADS

By B. A. TOBIN

Behind the Veil

THIS is the time of year when the product of a good many acres of forest land is used up telling the world what women are wearing on their heads. Millions of words, thousands of photographs, bushels and bushels of "oohs" and "aahs" are expended in describing and praising the latest hat creations. So much is written about them, in fact, that unless you actually read a paragraph of it you might get the idea that some matter of importance is being discussed. The first line or so, of course, corrects that impression. You don't need to plunge into the details—the shape and the material of this year's hat, the slant at which it must be worn, the stuff that must be tacked onto it to realize that this sort of literature is not getting at the heart of the world situation or presenting a solution to the major problems of our age.

It does remind you, however, that once again women are going to strive to wear something distinctive, something that sets them apart from their sisters just enough to make them outstanding but not enough to make them odd. And hundreds of thousands of them will turn out, boldly wearing the same sort of differentness, hopeful that no one else has one exactly like it, but thankful to see that everyone has one almost like it.

Modern women being forward-looking, these head decorations—indeed the whole beautifying process—are designed to show the front view. No mere male who has ever sat in the rear of a bus or stood in a queue has any doubts about that.

All too often the general effect is that of a stage production—gorgeous from the legs seats but from the back of the stage looking like—well, the back of a stage. But this is a digression. Of interest today is the thought that what goes on inside women's heads is equally as much a matter of fashion as what appears on their exteriors.

The latter mode may be straw or felt, large brim or small, embellished or plain. The ideas dished up in the women's pages, the housewives' magazines and the best-seller books run through a similar trend.

But whereas the woman of today is acutely uncomfortable and even affronted if she finds herself in the presence of a hat just like hers, she is delighted to find herself in the presence of ideas exactly like hers, and is upset and unhappy upon being confronted by thoughts that are unfashionably different. Perhaps a psychiatrist could explain this.

Mrs. X, with a hat that duplicates Mrs. Y's, is the latter's mortal enemy. But Mrs. X, with an idea that duplicates Mrs. Y's, is her friend for life.

Same Difference

Why emulation is the sincerest form of flattery in one case and a dastardly act of plagiarism in the other is one of the mysteries that abound in the feminine world. But the women's journals do what they can to help the process. On one page they offer tips on how to look a little different, and on the next they give hints on how to think exactly the same.

This may not be quite the philosophical contradiction it appears. For on examination it will be seen that the urge to look different is itself shared by nearly all women, so that in the search for differentness they are exhibiting a sameness after all.

Someone, probably a bachelor, has said that the mind of the modern woman is not really active, it's just restless. This might account for a good deal of the constant change that goes on in the world of fashion.

Each succeeding fad or fancy is seized on as the one that will bring happiness and contentment. It doesn't quite—but there's always another one ahead with equal promise. I wonder what would happen if ever the promise was fulfilled?

'Averaging'

I quote from your "Income Tax" columnist, April 1, "Averaging" Helps Fishermen and Farmers: "Both operate in risky fields of livelihood where income can skyrocket or slump to virtually nothing. Averaging is a device whereby this type of earner can elect to have his income averaged over a period of five years. By this means it is frequently possible to gain a rebate on previous years' taxes that will give a fisherman or a farmer a backlog of cash to carry him through difficult times."

I have no fault to find with the above pattern which, itself, may be described as humane and equitable; but I do object to the idea that, for any reason (in the market place or out of it) the income of these primary producers, who keep the rest of us alive—as President Eisenhower reminded his countrymen a few months back—can "slump" to virtually nothing. In other words, I am against that idiot mechanism's penchant of applying only to farmers and fishermen. On the prairies, as you may know, we have a jingle which runs: "One year on the uplands; another in the slough—dollar wheat in '29; two-bits in '32."

Those conditions must not be permitted to return; because, if they do, it would be "curtains" for the 13 million prosperous Canadians (1957 vintage) in town and city!

Of Cats and Human Cruelty

In reference to the report regarding cats killing birds—which is a natural instinct in a cat, though no fault of its own—and of the cruelty involved:

How about men and women who call themselves human beings and know better but go out to the forests with guns and bows and arrows and kill in cold blood any helpless creature which comes in sight?

I have seen men with cars flaunting dead bodies of beautiful deer and many forest animals, showing off their cruel skill. Many are maimed and left to die. I also have seen beautiful pheasants with one leg shot off and they flounder around until death releases them. And they call it sport.

So if human beings can be so brutal why condemn a little dumb creature for killing a bird while it does not understand it is doing anything wrong?

Cats are valuable in many ways. Our strawberry beds are ruined by birds every year. We get a few undamaged berries because the cat protects them. To put out traps is the most inhuman thing I have ever heard of. The traps may be harmless. But it is the idea of the cats being taken to the pound when most of them have kind, good homes.

The sad part of it is the poor terrified little creatures haven't the least idea of what it is all about.

Reading the accounts of Mr. Morris' witch-hunts reminds us of two cases closer to home. I am thinking of Mr. Gibbs' remarks in the Legislature regarding a Vancouver school teacher and of the Public Library incident of 1953.

How terrifying to realize that a man must resort to self-destruction before the public is roused from apathy to indignation! Has society become so callous that it demands the sacrifice of a life before it takes a stand against the persecution of individuals for beliefs they have renounced or never even held?

A BACKGROUND REPORT FROM AMMAN, TRANS-JORDAN

Stuff for Scheherazade---What Is Really Going On in the Troubled State of Jordan?

THE immediate significance of the stirring drama that has been convulsing this little kingdom, lies entirely in what has been prevented. The scheme was well laid. Young King Hussein was at the very least to be reduced to an impotent figurehead. A decisive step was to be taken towards a merger between Jordan and Syria. Above all, Jordan was to be firmly and finally gathered into the extreme anti-Western camp of the Arab world, taking its place as another satellite of Egypt with that extra, openly pro-Soviet tendency that Syria also displays.

All the odds favored the scheme's success. The Baath Party of the Prime Minister, Suleiman Nabulsi, not only controlled the government, but also the street crowds which habitually play such a tumultuous part in Jordanian politics.

Alsop

This combination of Gen. Abu Nawar and Prime Minister Nabulsi was in turn sustained by the two powerful and intimately linked networks of Egyptian and Communist agents. It seemed, indeed, that the scheme could not fail.

The story of how it did fail, with its hell-for-leather drives and its wild tribal intervention, is still for Scheherazade's thousand-and-one nights; and this report cannot resist belatedly attempting to tell the tale in full.

The tale's central motif is friendship betrayed. It begins a couple of years ago when King Hussein, then hardly more than a schoolboy, paid a visit to Paris. In Paris he met Jordan's military attaché, Ali Abu Nawar, who was then a mere major. Hussein took a liking to this fiery and ambitious young officer with his flashing eyes darkened in the Bedouin manner.

Over the protests of the Arab Legion's seasoned English commander, Glubb Pasha, the King insisted on bringing Major Abu Nawar back to Jordan as palace aide-de-camp.

Glubb Pasha's worst forebodings were rapidly confirmed. Ali Abu Nawar played a leading part behind the scenes, first in the Baghdad Pact crisis and then in the King's sudden dismissal of Glubb Pasha himself. Thence the step was short to Ali Abu Nawar's glittering promotion from major to major-general, and his appointment as the Arab Legion's new commander.

Having gained so much by the King's sole favor, Ali Abu Nawar quickly set about the task of transferring the Arab Legion's loyalty from the King to himself. In the ensuing period, the political trend in Jordan also went further and further against the West and towards the left. The final result was the extremist Nabulsi cabinet which included such over-all pro-Soviet members as the Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Abdullah Rimawi.

King Hussein, meanwhile, without losing faith in his Arab Legion commander, was turning more and more against the trend represented by Nabulsi and his colleagues.

Final Break
The final break was caused by the Cabinet's insistence upon purging the civil service of a large number of officials whose main crime was their known loyalty to the King. The Cabinet's intention to recognize the Soviet Union and to move towards merger with Syria was also involved.

There is no space here for the intricate convulsions of the long Cabinet crisis that ensued when the King dismissed the Nabulsi government. Throughout the crisis Ali Abu Nawar claimed and seemed to play the part of moderator. The crucial day came a week ago, at the end of days of rumor and intrigue, when King Hussein offered the Prime Ministership to the Jordanian elder statesman Said El Mufri.

At this point, Ali Abu Nawar, half dropping his moderator's disguise, went to the King's own nominee and told him that it would go ill for him if he consented to serve as Prime Minister.

Said El Mufri bowed to the implied threat. Following Ali Abu Nawar's advice he also recommended to the King a cabinet headed by Suleiman Nabulsi's ally, Abdel Halim Nimr.

Great Concessions

The King sent for Nimr and the end seemed to be in sight. Very great concessions were to be made to lull the King once again. And then, last week, the scheme was to be carried through as planned. Incidentally, Ali Abu Nawar, with any luck, was to emerge as the strongest man in a transformed Jordan.

But one factor had not been included in the calculations—the warlike Bedouin of the three great Jordanian desert tribes, the Beni Sakr, the Howeitat, and the Beni Hassan.

The Bedouin and their sheiks were loyal to the King. They had no liking for the Nabulsi and Nimr. And they heartily detested Ali Abu Nawar, who had been sharply discriminating against the large Bedouin element in the Arab Legion precisely because of their strong attachment to the Hashemite house.

Last Saturday afternoon, disorder began in the Arab Legion's camp at Zarqa. Here there was a sharp division between the factious following Ali Abu Nawar and the Bedouin loyal to the King. Disorder was sparked by representatives of the Moslem brotherhood.

Through their sheiks, the Bedouin legionnaires sent word to the palace in Amman that a plot against the King was hatching in the Legion. The sheiks moved up their own people towards Amman until somewhere between two and four thousand armed tribesmen were encamped in the hills around the city. And they told the King to be of good heart, for they would stand by him always.

Such was the situation when Ali Abu Nawar and the new Prime Minister-designate, Abdel Halim Nimr, presented themselves at the palace Saturday evening.

Nimr's terms were too stiff. The King refused them. And shortly thereafter, word came from Zarqa that actual fighting had broken out between the Arab factions in the camp.

Taking with him Ali Abu Nawar and a force of the palace guard, the King at once set out for Zarqa. At Ruseifa, about fifteen minutes fast driving out of Amman, the six cars carrying the King and his party encountered a great crowd of Bedouins.

The tribesmen cheered the King to the echo, but they howled down Ali Abu Nawar as a traitor, and called for his execution on the spot. According to a highly probable report, the bold major-general covered behind the King and pleaded with his friends to save his life.

Turning Point

This was the turning point. The King sent his major-general back under guard to the palace in Amman. With contrasting courage, Hussein himself drove wildly on to Zarqa, to confront his enemies. As his motorcade roared into the camp, the sudden fighting was still continuing and about a dozen lives had already been lost.

In a sudden hush, the young King mounted an armored car and spoke to the troops. His plea for their loyalty, his own protestation of loyalty to the Arab cause, produced an instantaneous effect.

All but a few officers too deeply implicated to turn back, now rallied to Hussein. The others were placed under arrest. The King's motorcade, now strengthened by a number of armored cars, roared back to the palace in Amman.

There Ali Abu Nawar had already once tried to escape. But although he gave orders as their commander, he had been turned back by the Bedouin Legionnaires who had moved up to guard the King's house.

Armed Escort

What passed between the King and Ali Abu Nawar when they finally met again before dawn, no one knows. Once again, Ali Abu Nawar was sent out under armed escort. This time he sought help from the same Said El Mufri whom he had been menacing the previous morning.

It is strongly presumed that Said El Mufri advised the King to permit Ali Abu Nawar to flee to Damascus with his family and possessions, as he did later on Sunday.

In Amman, with the Bedouin tribesmen oiling their rifles in the encircling hills, all was outwardly quiet on Sunday. Elsewhere, in Nablus, Jericho, and Jerusalem, there were minor disorders; and in Ramallah, groups hostile to the King even succeeded in seizing the main Jordan government radio station. But the scheme to take over had failed all the same.

The King, who had by now not slept for thirty-six hours, went on the air on Sunday over the smaller Amman radio station, making much the same speech to the nation that he had made to the troops the night before in Zarqa.

Four Bedouin units were ordered into Amman. Word was sent to the left-wing Committee of National Guidance, Communist infiltrated, that if they tried to stage any public demonstrations, the organizers of the demonstrations would be summarily executed. Outwardly, a tense calm continued to reign.

Actually, Syria had all but intervened that same day. Since the Suez crisis, some Syrian forces have been stationed within Jordan. At the northern town of Mafraq, reinforcements of these units began on Sunday.

According to one apparently reliable report, the young King found time in this tense and hurried day to drive furiously northwards, and to tell the Syrian commander that he would immediately call for military support from Iraq, if the main body of the Syrian army attempted to enter Jordan.

In any case, the fact was well established that a certain Syrian intervention was actually halted by the counter-threat of Iraqi intervention.

Still there was no Cabinet, although the King had sent for six former Prime Ministers just after dawn on Sunday to discuss the problem of cabinet-making. Hence on Monday, he called an assembly of the notables of the kingdom to the palace. Nabulsi and his ally, Abdullah Rimawi, according to one report, were to be ordered to attend the assembly.

Chose Compromise

The King offered the 300 notables the immediate choice between martial law and a generally agreed-upon Cabinet. The result was the present compromise Cabinet headed by Dr. Hussein Fahri Khalidi.

Since the King wanted agreement, the Cabinet includes Suleiman Nabulsi as a necessary gesture towards the strong sector of Jordanian opinion that he represents. But this is a Nabulsi with his plans frustrated.

Both King and Cabinet continue to protest their loyalty to the Egyptian alliance. But this is altogether different from the sort of violent, Soviet-influenced protestation in the Syrian style, that we should now be hearing if the great scheme had succeeded. As of now, Jordan's future is still darkly cloudy, but Jordan's fate at least is not sealed. (Copyright 1957, N.Y. Herald Tribune Inc.)

All Shook Up

LIKE Elvis Presley, I'm all shook up. Only for a different reason. It's not sex, but Social Studies 30 that's unsettling me!

For I've been following the fiendish explorers who made such a lot of work for those of us who are trying to study Canadian history.

Mind you, I admire them. But these days, with an examination looming up, I sometimes wish they'd all stayed home.

What a restless bunch they were—Cahoon finding fish banks off Newfoundland, Cartier messing about in the St. Lawrence, Froisher, Davis, Gilbert and Hudson all fussing over their Northwest Passage.

But the land-explorers were just as bad. Couldn't stay home a minute. Look at Champlain, for instance. And those young men of his.

They've tired me out, they have. I've been around the Great Lakes Region with Nicolet and Brule. And through the Huron Country. After a bit of a rest, I went with Joliet and Marquette and reached the Mississippi. With La Salle, I've gone all the way to its mouth. With Radisson and Groselliers, I've gone south and west and north of Lake Superior. I think we even reached the shores of Hudson Bay.

I couldn't tell you where I went with La Verendrye and his sons, except that much of it was round the Lake of the Woods and once, a whole lot further west, we saw some shining mountains that may have been the foothills of the Rockies.

Yes, I had a tough time trailing those French explorers. But the British were far worse.

With Kelsey, I went to the Saskatchewan Valley somewhere near The Pas.

With Henday, I made a remarkable journey of over a thousand miles from York factory on Hudson Bay to the foothills of the Rockies.

I went with Samuel Hearne across the Barren Lands and finally reached the mouth of the Coppermine on the Arctic Ocean. We discovered Great Slave Lake as well, and charted a vast and formerly unknown country.

With Mackenzie, I discovered and traced to its mouth a river that flowed west from Great Slave Lake and then turned north and flowed into the Arctic Ocean. "River Disappointment" we called it because we'd hoped that it would flow into the Pacific. But later, they changed its name to Mackenzie.

And then, just when I was ready to call it quits, Mackenzie said we must try again to find the river flowing to the Pacific. This time we went through the Rockies by the Peace River Pass and tried going down the Fraser for a while. But it got too tough, so we went overland and, following the Bella Coola, ended up on the shores of the Pacific. Slept on a rock that night, we did. Next day, Mackenzie mixed up some pemmican in melted grease and wrote his name on the southeast face of the rock. "Alexander Mackenzie from Canada, by land, the twenty-second of July, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three, Lat. 52° 20' 45" N."

As to my trip with Simon Fraser, I was too scared and pooped to care much what happened as the canoes went skimming down that wicked river we called after him.

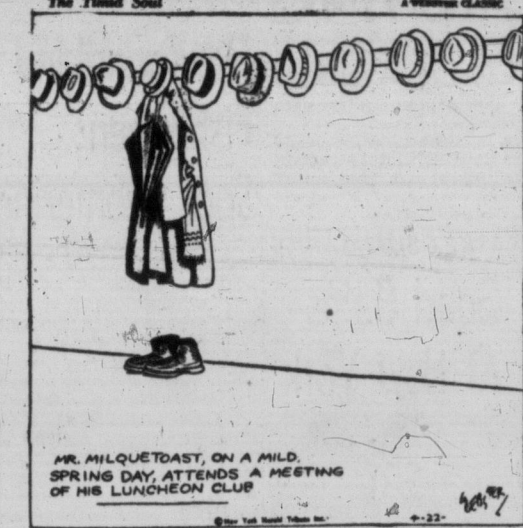

I went with Thompson, too. Right down the Columbia we went. And found the Stairs and Stripes waving at his mouth.

You may have spent last week getting ready for Easter. But I spent it following these explorers and quite a few I haven't even mentioned.

More than 300 years of exploration packed into seven days.

Can you wonder that I'm all shook up?

Start Planning Now For Winter Plants

At the height of spring, the gardener must plan for winter. If he is to have some of his favorite flowers during the dark months, now is the time to take cuttings, and get some young plants started.

The Christmas phorbia (Euphorbia pulcherrima) which was cut back during January and February, will now have young shoots ready to take off as cuttings.

Trim the pieces to about four inches, and insert in small pots of sandy soil. Tie a polyethylene bag over the pot, and cuttings, and keep in a temperature from 65-70 degrees F.

Inspect in about three weeks, to discover whether roots have formed. This may be ascertained by noting whether the cuttings are firm in the rooting medium, and also by the condition of the growing tips.

SANDY SOIL.

Cuttings of the Christmas flowering cactus (Zygocactus truncatus) may also be taken now. Healthy pieces from four to six inches long may be detached from an old plant, and placed in small pots of sandy soil. Only slight moisture is needed for rooting these, since the plant is a succulent and the leaves store enough water to last a month or so.

Do not cover these cuttings, but keep the pots in a warm, not too sunny spot, until rooted. A third winter flowering house plant is Kalanchoe laciniata, sometimes listed as K. coccinea. This plant has become quite popular during the last couple of years and as yet has been given no common name to confuse the public.

The small orange scarlet flowers are arranged in flat heads, and in the dwarf varieties these cover the plant for weeks. The foliage is a shining dark green, of succulent nature. Cuttings are taken now in the same way as for the zygocactus, and will make good growth during the summer, ready to flower next February.

MIDNIGHT TO 5 A.M.

Minnesota Bans Night Driving For Juveniles

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Juveniles under 17 are prohibited from driving cars between midnight and 5 a.m. under a new Minnesota law.

The law became effective Saturday when Governor Orville L. Freeman signed a bill forcing young drivers off highways in early hours.

Governor Freeman said crimes and accidents after midnight call for a trial of the law to protect both young and old from the "irresponsibility of a small minority."

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

More Victorian than Victoria

LONDON—What they're talking about... MICHAEL PARKER'S exit... and once again up comes this topic of the Royal Family and divorce.

In this case, of course, the enforced resignation of the Duke of Edinburgh's personal secretary did not involve divorce, merely separation.

So people are asking how far this thing is going to be taken.

Feeling of many is that whereas there might be much in favor of opposing a possible marriage between a Princess and a divorced person, the royal advisers are on somewhat tricky ground if they are going to see to it that no person around the Royal Family is one for whom the husband-wife relationship is shaky.

Having just had a divorced premier, the country now has several men high up in government who are in matrimonial difficulties. If the object now is to keep divorce well away from the Royal Family, it is going to be no easy task.

"Let's hope we're not going to become more Victorian than Victoria," some are saying.

THE WEATHER.... and it's delightful. Some rain of course, but it has been a mild, almost unnoticeable winter and of late we have been having a succession of spring-like days that have completely hoodwinked rose bushes and other shrubs in the gardens. Green sprouts all over the place.

Humans, too, seem to have the impression that spring has come in mid-winter this year. In Regent's Park last weekend the row boats were out on the lakes and tennis in full swing on the public courts.

BILL HALEY and His Comets.... His visit has set everybody talking, including a little girl who couldn't have been more than three, who was sitting on her mother's lap in the seat in front of me on the bus today.

The woman next to them got up to get out at her stop and as she did so the toddler got a big laugh from everyone when she said: "See later, alligator."

ALISTER MacLEAN.... Possibly you don't know the name but you've doubtless heard of his best-selling novel of a year or so ago, HMS Ulisses.

His new one just out here, The Guns of Navarone, is the most talked-of book right now—and for an interesting reason. It was serialized recently in the Saturday Evening Post and has been bought by the movies. Columbia in Hollywood.

Its obvious success baffles those who have now had a chance in this country to buy it and attempt to read it.

Bogged down in incredible adventures of cardboard characters who talk in creaking dialogue, they wonder how he has come to be hailed as the new John Buchan.

EMIGRATION.... Opinion polls—and statistics—bear out the fact that the widespread urge to get out of the country continues unabated.

Canada is away at the top of the list of countries Britons want to migrate to, followed by Australia and New Zealand, about equal, and then South Africa well down.

Latest poll reveals that two in five would leave England if freed to do so, highest proportion since the days when Britain was involved with Socialism.

Election Promises Permissible ---Providing They're Unsigned

OTTAWA (CP)—Candidates in the federal election campaign may make any number of promises—oral—but they can't sign with intent that it shall be carried out.

The public may heckle at a political meeting, but not if it is done "with intent to prevent the transaction of business."

And for years the election law has prohibited the carrying of swords, firearms, bludgeons or other offensive weapons in the neighborhood of a polling booth.

These three restrictions are among many others written into the Canada Elections Act. All are aimed at ensuring that elections are orderly, fair and secret.

STIFF PENALTIES

The first, in the words of one Commons member years ago, is to prevent a candidate from "selling himself on certain questions."

The second is to keep a candidate from drowning out a candidate's speech, and the third is to prevent intimidation of voters.

Some of the penalties are pretty stiff, although not often used.

You could be fined $2,000 or sent to prison for two years—or both—if you're caught with offensive weapons within half a mile of a polling booth. If you're a stranger in those parts, the distance is a full mile.

For an organized ruckus at a political meeting you may be fined $500, or sent to prison for a year, or both.

The candidate who signs an election promise is barred for five years from being elected to or sitting in the Commons, from voting and from holding any government job. In effect that means that if he was elected he can't take his Commons seat and he can't try again in the next election.

ORDERLY VOTE

Here are some of the other prohibitions in the Canada Elections Act:

You can't wear a campaign button or other party emblem within two days of the election. You can't sell beer or liquor on election day.

THE PERFECT DOUBLE BILL

GLASGOW, Scotland (CP)—A movie theatre in this city had a double bill: "Within These Walls" and "Dry Rot."

You can't use or get others to use "any loudspeaker, bunting, ensign, banner, standard or any set of colors or any other flag... with intent that it shall be carried, worn or used on automobiles, trucks or other vehicles as political propaganda" on election day or the day before that.

You aren't allowed to bribe or threaten a voter. You're not supposed to try to get a ballot by false pretences or try to vote if you're disqualified.

Reasons for most of the rules are obvious.

...THE DILTHROPS KNOW

"Life may very well be a gamble." Dad Dilthrop loves to say, "but you can shorten the odds and greatly improve your chances for Better Living by stacking the deck in your favour with a few bucks in the bank."

The Dilthrops' program for better living is solidly based on a savings account for each member of the family at their local B of M branch. The key to the success of their system is the Dilthrops' habit of steady saving for special objectives.

Dad Dilthrop, for example, handles major and periodic expenses like medical bills and insurance premiums through the main family account. Then, to make sure that Santa Claus stays solvent, Mom keeps a special Christmas savings account to cover gift-shopping expenses. The Dilthrops youngsters, too, each have their own savings accounts—a wonderful help in teaching them the valuable lessons of thrift and self-reliance.

Why don't you follow the lead of the Dilthrops and thousands of other Canadian families with this tried and tested formula: a habit of thrift and a B of M Savings Account for each member of the family. After all, better living isn't a matter of luck for most people. It's a matter of playing each card to get the most out of life... and a B of M Savings Account helps you do just that.

3 1/2-HOUR STUNT PAYS OFF

Disc Jockey's Hatred Of Elvis Supported

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—A country music disc jockey locked himself in a radio station control room Saturday and played Elvis Presley records for 3 1/2 hours because he didn't like the rock 'n' roll singer.

The stunt by "Hillbilly Hal" Kennedy kept his job for him after more than 2,000 telephone calls and 1,000 telegrams were received from listeners.

About 2,000 of the 3,000 total were in favor of Kennedy and against Presley, station WFFA said, and another 1,000 were against the disc jockey because he didn't like Presley.

Manager Ralph Petty said he and Kennedy had had a disagreement of having to play so many Presley records.

Kennedy retaliated by locking himself in and spinning nothing but Presley pieces because "if that's what they'll get." He played Hound Dog for 45 minutes and then mixed in other Presley platters and denunciations of Petty.

Petty said that after the session started he fired Kennedy but told him he would rehire him if he received 1,000 telegrams. Kennedy stopped the Presley party and came out voluntarily when more than that number arrived.

Children's Bike Safety Wins Radios

An 11-year-old boy and a 12-year-old girl Saturday each won portable radios from the Victoria Optimist Club for their bicycle safety habits.

John Bumpas, 11, 1640 Rockland, and Karen Lemonagne, 12, 2543 Government, were among more than 100 cyclists between ages of five and 14 who pedalled into Royal Athletic Park to hear an Optimist-sponsored talk on bicycle safety by Sgt. Brooke Douglass of the city police traffic department.

The event ended "Bicycle Safety Week," which was also club-backed.

Police inspected the bicycles to see if they were safe to ride, and helped affix red reflecting tape emblems to rear fenders of the bikes.

Driving 'Stunt' Ends in Death For 4-Year-Old

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Police said a four-year-old girl was killed Sunday when struck by a car steered by a teen-ager sitting backwards on the car's hood. Johnny Marie Reeves was playing near a curb when the car went out of control. Raymond Penrod, 17, who allegedly was steering the car, was held for investigation. Four other youths were also in the car.

7 GOOD REASONS WHY YOU SEE MORE FARGO TRUCKS on the road than ever before!

1 Forward Look styling. Everything about your Fargo truck says here's a businessman who's really on his toes. Smooth-flowing lines, forward-thrusting fenders, modern hooded headlamps, wide-sweeping grille—all have a business-building flair and look of fleetness.

2 Super-rugged design. From built-to-take-it chrome-alloy springs to extra-heavy-duty frames to shot-peened rear axles, Fargos are engineered to give you a valuable bonus in hauling ability. Toughest runs with heaviest loads are picnics for these big huskies.

3 Economical operation. Fargo V-8's and proved Sixes give you full power on regular gas. Extra-rugged chassis components are Chrysler-engineered for long life. Exclusive full-opening alligator hood makes engine maintenance easier, faster, thriftier.

4 Top power. Model for model, Fargo trucks lead all others in advanced-design V-8 power, ranging from 180 to 232 h.p. Thrifty Fargo Sixes, too, are leaders, known the world over for dependable performance.

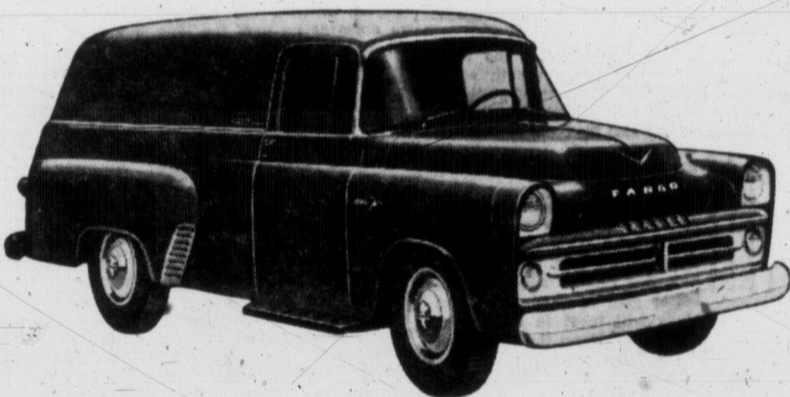

5 Driving ease. Shortest turning diameters (on many models) let you jockey easily out of tight spots. Instruments are easy to see, controls easy to reach. Push-button driving (available on D100 3/4-ton models) is best for start-and-stop hauling ease and convenience.

6 More comfort, safety. Wide, wide seat has fore-and-aft adjustment; seat-back angle can be adjusted, too, for more driver comfort. Gasoline tank housed outside the cab, electric windshield wipers, and safety door latches are just three of many important Fargo safety features available to you at no extra cost.

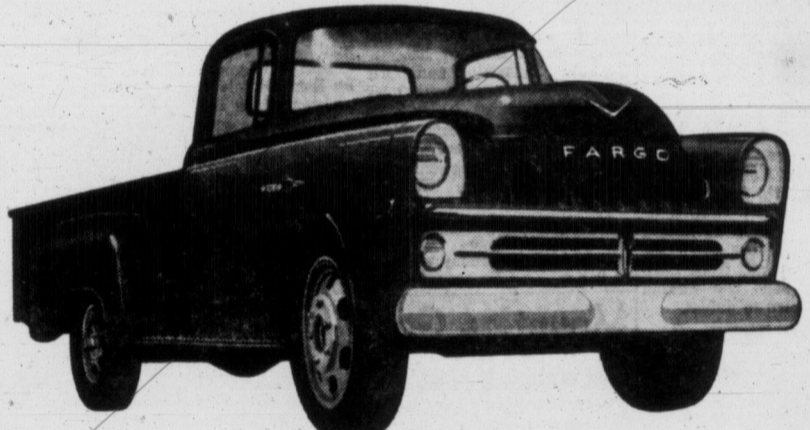

7 Models for every need. Fargo offers panels and expresses, plus cab-and-chassis and chassis-cowl models to accommodate stake, platform, and other special bodies. Fargo trucks range from 4,250 lbs. to 46,000 lbs. G.V.W. and up to 65,000 lbs. G.C.W.

Don't Blink; Mounties In Top Spot

Twin Shutout Wins Extend Coast Lead

By United Press

No, Dad, you haven't got your newspaper upside down. The Vancouver Mounties moved further ahead in the Pacific Coast League race and it hardly looked like a fluke.

Manager Charley Metro's club, which was brushed off as a natural for the cellar by just about everybody this spring, swept a double-header from Sacramento Sunday to post its eighth win in 10 games. The scores were 1-0 and 7-0 as Mel Held and southpaw Art Cecorelli turned in a pair of impressive three-hitters.

As for the silent Sacs, they have been blanked for 22 straight innings since getting a pair of unearned tallies on Saturday night. The teams play again tonight to make up a rained-out contest.

In other games, San Francisco divided with Seattle to remain a game and a half off the pace behind the Mounties, whom they host this week. San Diego downed Portland twice and Los Angeles won two more from slumping Hollywood.

Held had little trouble with Sacramento in the first game and got all the help he needed in the fourth inning when Joe Frazier homered off Gene Bearden to help send the veteran left-hander down to defeat.

WIN NIGHTCAP

The Mounties then combed Roger Osenbaugh for 10 hits in the seven-inning nightcap, while Cecorelli held Sacramento to one pure single by Russ Rosburg and a pair of scratch hits. Kal Segrist homered for Vancouver in the third with a man aboard.

Seattle and San Francisco took turns belting each other. The Rainiers won the first game, 10-4, while exploding for seven runs in the seventh inning.

Bob Thollander, former University of San Francisco star, then pitched and batted the Seals to a 6-1 win in the nightcap.

Los Angeles boomed into third place by taking a pair from arch-rival Hollywood to sweep the five-game series in the Twink's park. The Seraphs scored 10 runs in the eighth inning of the opener, while lacing Hollywood, 15-5. Steve Bilko accounted for six runs with two homers, one coming with the bases loaded.

The second game went two extra frames before Los Angeles won it, 3-1. San Diego beat Portland, 8-5 and 4-0.

Marksmen On Target

Marksmen were squeezing triggers in midsummer form as the Victoria and District Rifle Association opened its outdoor season at Heals Range Sunday.

Setting the pace was Frankie Morse, who dropped only five points below a possible in the three-stage shoot. Morse fired 34 out of a possible 35 from 200 yards, registered a 33 at 500 yards and finished with another 33 from the 600-yard mound for a total of 100.

Frank Drysdale and Air Cadet Peter Roach were only one point back of Morse with Drysdale taking second place through a higher score from the 600-yard range, where Roach, after firing two 34s, skidded to a 31.

Next weekend's shoot, originally scheduled for Saturday, will be held on Sunday, starting at 9 a.m.

Mounties Get Oriole Prize

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tito Francona, the 23-year-old service returnee who stuck with the Baltimore Orioles during the 1956 season, was optioned to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League Sunday on 24-hour recall.

The surprise move came several hours after the outfielder first baseman had knocked in the winning run in the first game with the Washington Senators.

With the Oriole roster reduced to 27, or one below the limit, manager Paul Richards is thought to be paving the way for an additional catcher to be added to the squad.

Burnside Club Greens

Burnside Lawn Bowling Club will officially open their season's play Saturday when Saanich Reeve, Arthur Ash, throws the first ceremonial ball.

The club is anxious to have members of city clubs attend and invites all persons interested to make use of their greens during the season.

Don Pays Dividends; Rocks Gladly Collect

Victoria Shamrocks' move that pried Don Sherry loose from Nanaimo Timberrmen is looking better all the time.

Sherry, one of the stars in Nanaimo's march to the Mann Cup lacrosse championship last season, rapped in four of the six goals scored by Victoria players as a picked Intercity Lacrosse League squad edged the Timberrmen, 14-13, in a benefit-exhibition game at Nanaimo Saturday night.

And to make things even brighter for the Rocks, it was the great goaltending of Gordie Johnston that played one of the biggest parts in depriving the Canadian champions of victory.

Timberrmen, however, were minus regulars Bob Allen, Harry Wippen, Harold Fox and Gogi Stewart for the game which attracted an estimated 850 fans to help the fund being raised to build a fund for the family of Tommy White, Nanaimo athlete killed in a car crash last year.

Other Victoria contributions to the winning effort were a goal and two assists by Peeewe Bradshaw, a goal and an assist by Bert Bertola and a pair of assists by Lew Landess.

Setting the scoring pace for the Timberrmen was Spud Morelli, who fired three shots behind Johnston. Don Ashbee and newcomer Skip Mackay each scored twice. Derry Davies scored once for Nanaimo and made the plays for four other goals.

All-Stars were handled by Jake Proctor, now coach of New Westminster Salmonbellies, and included players from the Shamrocks, Salmonbellies and Vancouver Pilesters.

Timberrmen and Shamrocks will usher in the 1957 season when they clash at Memorial Arena Friday night.

TRIANDOS SHELVED

BALTIMORE (AP) — A new examination shows that Gus Triandos, big Baltimore catcher and top RBI man for the Orioles, has a fractured vertebra in his lower back and will be sidelined for two weeks.

CLEVELAND (NEA)

The highlight of Bob Feller's career came in 1946, when he struck out 348 batters, high for his time in the American League.

Gordy Puts Boots To Astral Ruggers

Gordie Hemmingway, speedy backfield star of the JBAA squad, put his kicking boot to work at Macdonald Park Saturday to lead the Victorians to a 13-3 exhibition rugby victory over Winnipeg RCAP Astrals.

The visitors held the Bays to a scoreless tie in the opening half but were unable to hold out against the power-running and accurate kicking of the Cowichan Cup champions after intermission.

Hemmingway got the Bays untracked early in the second frame when he lofted a penalty kick over the crossbar and followed it with a rail-splitter after a try by Frank Gower.

Winnipeg sliced the JBAA lead with a try but powerful Ken Higgs countered with another try, which Hemmingway converted to end the game.

To those who hadn't seen a marathon before, the pace of the leaders was fantastic. An indication could be seen in that aides who waited at check points for the runners could barely keep up with them long enough to hand them sponges and drinks as they dashed past.

Dickson's care in judging his pace was apparent in that at the halfway mark he was running tenth, having carefully decided to conserve his strength. The redhead carries only 120 pounds on his five-foot-nine frame.

Before the start Dickson vowed that he would not be enticed into early sprints by the older, more experienced runners from the Far East and Finland. He held to his decision, and otherwise might well have failed.

An oddity of the marathon was that—for the first time in 61 years—it was raced at regulation length. An error in measurement was discovered recently, meaning that runners had to cover more than 1,000 yards extra Saturday, well over three minutes. But even allowing for this distance, today's times fell below last year.

FLAMING SPORTS CAR CREMATES LOU BRERO

HONOLULU (AP) — Lou Brero Sr., 52-year-old Arcata, Calif., driver, died Sunday night of burns suffered when his sports car burst into flames in the final in a race.

Brero was travelling at an estimated 140 miles an hour when his car caught fire on the straightaway and hurled flaming gasoline over his body. He braked to about 35 miles an hour and leaped from his car, his clothes aflame, but died soon after.

The pilotless sports car, trailing clouds of smoke, scorched a black path 400 yards through the infield before it stopped.

TILlicums WIN SECOND HALF

Soccer Pot Rides On One Big Game

The long race for the Victoria and District Football League championship has been reduced to a one-game sprint.

Tillicums whittled the issue down to a sudden-death affair Saturday when they stretched their victory skein through 11 games and took the second-half title with a 6-0 triumph over Brodie's Bakery in the final league match.

Scoring their second straight shutout, Tillicums pulled into a tie with first-half winners Gorge Hotel and took second-half flag on the strength of a better goal average. The two clubs will meet to decide the championship on the first open date, probably May 4.

Sunday's action was limited to an exhibition game between Punjab United and Nanaimo at Heywood Avenue Park that ended in a 4-4 draw.

A collection at Sunday's game raised $40 for the fund to help build a home for the widow of Nanaimo athlete Tommy White.

Scoring for Punjab were Joe Robbins, Joe Hillhouse, Chris Braun and Henry Vanderhorst. Nanaimo, which was in front 2-1 at the half and collected the tying goal, two minutes from time, got one goal when Punjab fullback Lionel Speller kicked the ball into his own net, two goals from Leroy Bond and a single marker from Hastings Henry.

Whitey Turner rapped in two second-half goals to pace the Tillicums to their win over Brodie's. First-half goals were scored by Jim McGhee and Ced Robb.

HEAT SNUFFS OUT TOP CANADIAN THREAT AT BOSTON

Kelley's Killing Pace Wins Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Kelley, 26-year-old, distance runner, who finally found the confidence to go with his skill, has regained for the United States its self-respect in international marathon circles.

The English teacher from Groton, Conn., won the Boston Marathon Saturday in two hours, 20 minutes and five seconds, and handed one of the finest foreign fields ever assembled a resounding defeat, finishing 1,000 yards in front of Veikko Karvonen of Finland.

Considered the best in his field, Karvonen, winner here in 1954, couldn't keep pace with Kelley through the hills after Johnny made his bid where Finland's Antti Viskari spurred a year ago to beat him.

Karvonen's countryman, Olavi Manninen, was fourth. Gordon Dickson, 25, like Kelley a teacher, topped the Canadian entries for the second straight year, finishing seventh, the same as in 1956.

Dickson, 120-pounder from Claresholm, Alta., teaches in Hamilton.

Many times since he started distance running in 1948, Kelley was going to quit before friends helped him change his mind.

Last year his second-place finish behind Viskari here and a record victory in the nationals at Yonkers, N.Y., lifted him greatly.

"The heat, the heat was awful. I fought it all the way," said Dickson as he tottered toward the showers and a bowl of soup after the race.

But he quickly recovered and was able to convey jaunty and smiling congratulations to Kelley, who by this time was prone on a cot in the athletes' rest rooms.

Kelley's feat was the more admirable because he ran on a foot still sore from a racing injury last year. His business-like gain never appeared to waver although a well-named heartbreak hill near the end of the race, he gasped with relief as he topped the rise.

It was at that point—near Boston College—that the race became a one-man affair, when it became obvious that no one could catch Kelley unless he collapsed.

To those who hadn't seen a marathon before, the pace of the leaders was fantastic. An indication could be seen in that aides who waited at check points for the runners could barely keep up with them long enough to hand them sponges and drinks as they dashed past.

Dickson's care in judging his pace was apparent in that at the halfway mark he was running tenth, having carefully decided to conserve his strength. The redhead carries only 120 pounds on his five-foot-nine frame.

Before the start Dickson vowed that he would not be enticed into early sprints by the older, more experienced runners from the Far East and Finland. He held to his decision, and otherwise might well have failed.

Odds on Colwood Shorten to 50-50

Bob Woods Upsets Bigelow; Joins Court in Semifinal

By DOUG PEDEN

Little Bob Woods has juggled the odds back in favor of Colwood in the Times Open Golf Championships.

Last year, when the Vancouver Island tournament kettle had boiled down to the semifinal round, the Colwood golf clan had sewn up the title for the second successive year by grabbing all four available berths.

The chances for a third straight victory were stretched thin when only two Colwoodians escaped the rash of second-round upsets, but when the final four survivors in the eighth annual edition of the Open start swinging in the 36 holes semis at Gorge Vale next Sunday, Woods and club professional Bill Court will be shooting to make it another all-Colwood final.

Court stayed in the running for the crown won last year by Laurie Kerr by hanging on at his home course Sunday for a 2 and 1 decision over Gorge Vale pro Joe Pryke.

Woods muscled into the select quartet by kicking over the dope cart with a 5 and 4 thumping of Victoria Golf Club's George Bigelow.

Opposing Woods in the semis will be Joe Briggs, who crushed a jittery Roy Chappell, 5 and 4, in an all-Gorge Vale tussle, while Court will be up against steady Alan Reside of Uplands, a 3 and 2 winner over his scrappy clubmate, Gordie Pel-low.

Bigelow, who also bowed out in the quarter-finals last year when he lost a 19-hole battle with Vince Clarkson, was fighting a losing battle all the way with the sharp-putting Woods.

Two down at the turn, the long-hitting doctor had a great chance to whittle the margin on the 10th green but had to settle for a half on the hole when he flubbed an 18-inch putt.

Turning point of the match came on the next hole as Woods fired a great recovery from a trap to get down with a par 3 to take a three-up lead.

He carved out a methodical par to go 4 up on the 12th and after the 13th was halved, salted down the win with a tremendous shot that produced a birdie on the 14th.

But he went behind to stay on the short—fourth, where he dropped his tee shot in the water, reached the green in three and, after missing his putt, conceded the hole.

Chipping close to the pin, Court won the par-four sixth in regulation figures as his rival again failed to sink a four-footer and he went three-up with a par on the eighth as Pryke shanked his second shot and took a bogey five.

In trouble on the ninth, Court recovered to win the hole with a bogey and go four-up as Pryke hit a bunker on his second, blasted over the green, chipped too far coming back and was short with his bid for a half.

Court conceded the 10th to Pryke's par four and the next three holes were halved in pars, although Court rimmed the cup on a long putt that would have given him a win on the 13th.

Bill Had Some Anxious Moments

After clubbing a 215-yard drive, Woods rammed a screaming three-wood 15 feet from the pin on the 465-yard par-five and got down in two putts to lower the boom on Bigelow, who had been conceding an excellent chance of giving Oak Bay its first Times Open crown.

Court, conqueror of 1955 champion Bill McColl in the previous round, received a few assists from Pryke's misbehaving putter as he built up a fat lead but still had some anxious moments before coming out on top.

The Colwood pro went ahead on the first hole of the match that attracted the largest gallery when Pryke missed a four-foot putt and held the edge with a half as the smooth-swinging Gorge pro three-putted on the second green.

Pryke drilled a string-straight iron three feet from the flag on his second at the 405-yard third and dropped the birdie putt to square the match.

But Pryke, who had gained a half on the ninth by holing out a sensational 80-foot chip shot, refused to quit and won the 14th with a birdie four and took the 15th when Reside slipped one over regulation figures.

However, Reside was back in the par groove on the 16th to gain a half and his 3 and 2 victory.

Briggs went ahead at the second hole, slipped back even as Chappell took the third and after splitting the next three, won the seventh, eighth and ninth to reach the turn with a three-hole lead.

He went four ahead as Chappell belted his first tee shot out of bounds on the 10th and made it five up with a par at the 13th, where he laced a 200-yard wood shot into the wind to 12 feet from the cup.

A four-foot putt after a good chip on the 14th gave Briggs a half with a par five and a berth in next Sunday's 36-hole semis at Gorge Vale.

GLITTERING DERBY FIELD

NEW YORK (AP) — Whirlaway's Kentucky Derby record of 2:01.25 will be in jeopardy when Bold Ruler, Gen. Duke, Iron Liege and perhaps as many as half-a-dozen others hook up at Churchill Downs May 4 in the 83rd running of the 1 1/4-mile turf classic for three-year-olds.

The big three of the narrow-ing field for the race have equalled one world record, broken three track marks and matched two others this year.

Bold Ruler, smooth-striding son of Nasrullah from Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Wheatley stable, hung up his second track record by the slim margin of a nose Saturday when he won the mile and one-eighth of the Wood Memorial at Jamaica in 1:48.45.

MARK FALLS

The time, posted after a stirring stretch duel with Ralph Lowe's Texas-owned Gallant Man, clipped two-fifths of a second off Jamaica's record set by the four-year-old Bryan G in 1951 and was 1.5 seconds under the stake mark established by Correlation in 1954.

Previously, Bold Ruler lowered the Hialeah Park record for the same distance to 1:57 as he beat Gen. Duke from the Calumet farm in the Flamingo track's seven-furlong standard with a 1:22 clocking in the Bahamas.

Gen. Duke joined the record smashing in the Florida Derby with a world-equaling time of

Ottawa Canadians Tackle Bombers For Memorial Cup

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Canadians, fresh from easy victory in the Eastern Canada junior hockey finals, today were on their way to Flin Flon, Man., their sights set on the Memorial Cup.

The junior Habs defeated Guelph Biltmores 6-1 Saturday night for their fourth win against one loss and one tie to win the Eastern Canada title and the Richardson Trophy.

They meet Flin Flon Bombers, the western champions, Wednesday night in Flin Flon to open a best-of-seven final. All games are to be played in the west.

Texas Sprinters Smash 440 Mark

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Texas University's fantastic sprinters bettered their own world's record in winning the university quarter-mile relay in 39.9 seconds Saturday.

Texas' 440-yard baton team—Wally Wilson, Eddie Southern, Hollis Gaine and Bobby Whilden—was clocked three-tenths of a second faster than the Longhorns' recognized world record of 40.2 seconds for the quarter mile. The mark was set in the California relays at Modesto in 1955.

A 40.1 effort by Texas in the event here last year still is up for approval as a world mark.

Shrine Soccer Series

VANCOUVER (CP) — New Westminster Royals kicked off to a 2-1 win over North Shore United Saturday to win the new season's Shrine soccer laurels at Callister Park before 2,000 fans.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES
Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then Ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Dennis Alan Budd, aged nine, Vancouver, B.C., for his question:
How Can a Hummingbird Fly Backwards?
The wide-winged albatross can soar for days over the lonely ocean. The sharp winged swift can jerk and glide along at 55 miles an hour. The soft winged falcon can sometimes zoom fast enough to catch him. But the little hummingbird is the greatest of all fliers. He is a speed flier and a distance flier. What's more, he alone in the bird world can hover on beating wings and fly backwards.

The hummer is the smallest kind of bird. The body of the bee hummingbird measures about an inch. Beak and tail bring his total measurement up to two inches. The giant hummingbird measures nine inches, including beak and tail. Most of 750 jewelled varieties of hummer are about four inches long. All are natives of the New World. They range from Cape Horn to Alaska, though some areas see a hummer only as a summer visitor.

It is possible to see a hummingbird almost anywhere in the U.S. Only one, the ruby-throated hummer, visits east of the Mississippi, but 18 different varieties visit the western states. Wherever you live, hummers should be encouraged in the garden. Not only do they eat up the bugs that feed on flowers, they also provide you with fascinating aerial acrobatics. Red blossoms encourage them and a feeding station of sugary syrup will keep them coming.

The hummer gets his name from those whirring wings that beat too fast to be seen. We hear the whirr but see only a blur. The camera can give us a glimpse of them in motion. In volume six of your gift encyclopedia there is a picture. The flight of three hummers is frozen as they hover over a feeding station.

As you watch, the hummer darts around the garden like an arrow. In short spurts, he may fly faster than his relative, the swift. And his tiny wings are durable enough to take him 500 miles non-stop across the Gulf of Mexico.

The aerial acrobatics of hovering and reverse flying are done with special shoulder joints. The hummer can rotate his wings like propellers. The backward flight operates very much like a helicopter. However, the blades of the helicopter rotate parallel with the ground, hot dogs and ice cream. This hummer rotates his wings in swift ovals which slope to get started with a coffee shop, wards the ground.

PARKSVILLE GROUP. A crowd of 400 gathered in the Parksville Community Hall to see an outstanding exhibition of Scouting displays by the Cubs and Scouts from the Arrow-smith district.

District Commissioner Tom Tryon welcomed them and expressed his thanks for the interest shown in the work of scouting.

Queen's Scouts Larry Hodgson and Ted Butler performed the flag raising ceremony.

A full two hours of entertainment included tumbling acts, jungle dances, signaling exhibitions, knot-tying and making fire by friction.

The evening finished with a campfire and sing song. Packs taking part were Parksville's Waingunga and Seconee, 1st and 2nd Qualicum, and Combs.

WINDSOR PARK "B" PACK. Jungle dances were practiced for the forthcoming parents' night, and Nature observation tests were run off. Peter Roberts was invested as a "sixer" and received his first star.

FAIRFIELD TROOP. At the regular meeting Monday evening, 15 Scouts were presented with their junior St. John Ambulance certificates. Derrick Nutton and Roddy Jernain receiving a prize for the highest marks made in the exams.

PORT ALBERNI. Despite the rain last Saturday a large number of Scouts turned out for another workshop at the Curly Wilson project. After piling and burning rubbish and slash, the Scouts relaxed in the house with hot dogs and ice cream. This project is to help a polio victim in swift ovals which slope to get started with a coffee shop, wards the ground.

Scrap Metal Drive To Boost Mass Swim

A scrap metal drive to raise a $10,000 purse for the Jaycee second annual mass swim race across the Strait of Juan de Fuca will be launched by the Junior Chamber of Commerce this week.

The Jaycees will collect any type of metal—old iron stoves, water boilers, keys, pipe fittings, wrecked cars.

J. K. Nicol, director of the swim marathon, said the chamber wants at least a $10,000 fund to attract some of the world's best swimmers to Victoria.

He said application forms for the race have been sent to all top-flight distance swimmers, including Brenda Fisher, Britain's outstanding swimmer who broke Marilyn Bell's time in crossing Lake Ontario two years ago.

"We must have a sufficient fund to attract these international swimmers to the strait swim," said Mr. Nicol. "If Victorians co-operate in the scrap-metal drive we feel certain we can reach our objective."

The drive will start next Tuesday in Esquimalt and will last about a week in that municipality. Esquimalt municipal workers will co-operate in collecting the metal from homes.

As soon as the scrap has been collected in Esquimalt, the Jaycees will start collecting from Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay homes.

BLUEBLOOD ROCK 'N' ROLLER

Peer Boots Press From Actress' Cabin

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The Hon. Tony Moynihan, 21, fun-loving rock 'n' roll son of a British peer, sailed from Sydney with a characteristic flourish today. He booted two reporters from the cabin of an attractive young showgirl acquaintance.

Tony left aboard the liner Australia for Europe. A former officer in the elite Brigade of Guards, he is heir to the title of Lord Moynihan of Leeds. The scene occurred shortly before the Australia cast off, in the cabin of shapely 21-year-old Colleen Bennett, Colleen, who has been appearing in a water follies in Sydney, said she is going to Britain for a screen test. Tony said he is going to Italy for a night club engagement.

"Our traveling on the same boat is pure coincidence," he declared.

Tony got into an argument when reporters tried to interview Colleen. Later he cooled down over a drink in the ship's lounge.

Moynihan flew halfway around the world from London last fall "to escape the wrath" of his father over his rock 'n' roll night life in London.

Shortly after his arrival here Sydney-born showgirl Ann Herbert disclosed in London she had secretly married him and that they had separated. Today, Tony said he would "examine the position" of his marriage when in Europe.

Mrs. Jack Mitchell, mother of Pat Gaston, now in the Ziegfeld Follies in New York, said her 27-year-old daughter told her by phone she would marry the 63-year-old Manville within the next 10 days.

Comedian Holds Suspect At Gunpoint

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Comedian Jerry Lewis said today that he was cold but not frightened when he held a burglary suspect at gunpoint for 10 minutes on Saturday night while his wife and children were watching television.

Lewis said he got his gun and guarded the suspect, identified as George W. Sheffield, until police arrived.

"I was ready to shoot to protect my family," Lewis said. "I held him at gunpoint for 10 minutes, half-frozen to death. All I had on was a T shirt and trousers."

Lewis said Sheffield came to his home, earlier and made remarks about "killing people." The comedian said he ordered him to leave and then got his gun. Lewis' wife and children were unaware of what was happening.

Sheffield was booked and later jailed on suspicion of burglary. Lewis said police told him that the suspect had a burglary record.

This is one of the most fascinating and incredible stories ever to be told on the screen. A story of indomitable courage, humor, and the dogged determination to "carry on" under the most punishing handicaps. All done with the light-hearted understatement the British are past masters at. A real inspiration. Portrayed by the most perfectly cast Kenneth More. It provides unalloyed entertainment for the whole family. Beer Flow Halts, Workers Strike

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE RUPERT—No beer was served at any of the seven hotels here Saturday after Local 636 of the Hotel, Restaurant Workers and Bartenders' Union carried out a threatened strike for wage increases.

Pickets paraded outside the hotels as employees inside demanded a 15-cent-an-hour increase for waiters and tapmen, as recommended by a conciliation board last November.

William H. Murray, Secord MLA and spokesman for the hotel operators, said there is no dispute between the operators and union. He said that operators admit that employees are entitled to wage increases.

"For the operators we consider it essential to increase the retail price of draught beer and an application for such is being made to the Liquor Control Board," Mr. Murray said.

He said previous applications to the Liquor Control Board have been refused.

The government liquor store trobled its beer business and clubs throughout Prince Rupert were reported busy.

Hardest hit are the Indians in the area, who are only allowed to drink beer in a beer parlor.

CAR HITS BANK

PRINCETON — Mrs. Ella Cashmore, 51, of Vancouver, was in fairly good condition in hospital here with shock and bruises suffered Sunday when a car driven by her husband skidded into an embankment 20 miles west of here and rolled onto its side. Her husband, Vincent, was not injured.

SUSPECT CAUGHT

VANCOUVER — Len Edward Truman, 28, of Vancouver, was charged Sunday with breaking and entering and contributing to juvenile delinquency, following a high-speed chase earlier in downtown Vancouver.

Police said Truman was accompanied by a 14-year-old boy.

PAIR SENTENCED

VANCOUVER — Two men convicted last week on attempted burglary charges have been sentenced in police court by Magistrate Oscar Orr.

He sentenced 24-year-old Lorne McQuarrie to eight months and 30-year-old Donald McDonald to six months.

The two were arrested March 8 by police who found them crouched against a door of an East End establishment. Pliers and a screwdriver were found nearby.

LOGGER INJURED

FIVE HONORARY DEGREES

900 to Graduate At UBC in May

More than 900 students will get degrees—and four prominent men and a woman will receive honorary degrees—at the 42nd annual spring congregation May 21 and 22 at University of B.C.

Degrees will be conferred by Chancellor Sherwood Lett in ceremonies at 2:30 p.m. in the Armories.

Honorary degrees will be conferred on:
Dr. Clarence M. Hincks, national consultant to the Canadian Mental Health Association, and founder of the Canadian mental health movement in Canada. He will receive an honorary Doctor of Science degree (D.Sc.).

To receive the same degree is Dr. E. W. R. Steacie, president of the National Research Council of Canada who has had a distinguished career as a chemist. He will be congregation speaker on May 21.

Capt. M. C. Robinson, National Institute for the Blind in Western Canada, will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree (LL.D.). Capt. Robinson is a past president of the Vancouver Rotary, and was president of the American Association of Workers for the Blind, Inc. He lives in Vancouver.

FROM OXFORD

Also to receive honorary Doctor of Laws degrees are Prof. H. J. Davis of Oxford, a leading authority on English, author and satirist Jonathan Swift, and Prof. Doris B. Saunders, associate professor of English at the University of Manitoba. Miss Saunders is cited for guidance and counsel to university women through the years. Prof. Davis will address the congregation on May 22.

Degrees granted on Tuesday, May 21, will be:
Master of Science (M.Sc.); Master of Applied Science (M.A.Sc.); Master of Science in Agriculture (M.S.A.); Master of Forestry (M.F.); Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.); Bachelor of Applied Science (B.A.Sc.); Bachelor of Architecture (B.Arch.); Bachelor of Science in Agriculture (B.S.A.); Bachelor of Laws (LL.B.); Doctor of Medicine (M.D.); Bachelor of Science in Forestry (B.S.F.); Bachelor of Education (B.Ed.); Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com.).

House Face-Lifting Thrills Iclander

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Next Saturday will be a proud day for 70-year-old Miss Ranka Anderson who lives alone in her grey weather-beaten pioneer home on Fernwood road.

Her 65-year-old house at 2221 Fernwood, corner of Denman, one of the oldest in the district, will take on a new look for the first time in 34 years.

The dwelling has been selected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as its "paint-up" project to mark the beginning of the Jaycee "paint up, clean up and plant up" campaign.

The week-long campaign, starting next Saturday, is being launched to encourage Victorians to spruce and trim their homes and gardens for the 1958 centennial year.

VOLUNTEERS

The exterior of the old house will be painted by volunteer help from local 1163 of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America.

It was last painted in 1923. Miss Anderson is a cheerful, kindly woman, who is regarded as the dean of Victoria's small Icelandic community. She is strongly attached to the house in which she has lived all her life.

"It was bought by her father, an Iclander, in 1900. It is said to have been built in 1893."

"I was thrilled when I heard the house was selected as the Jaycee painting project," Miss Anderson said. "I couldn't have afforded to do the job myself."

The house will be painted white and the trimmings of the windows black.

LANDMARK
Ed Leisch, chairman of the clean-up campaign, said the house was chosen because it was a landmark and would improve the district.

The house is situated in an area which was formerly inhabited by the Icelandic community. The immigrants, with the exception of a few families, later all moved to Point Roberts, Washington, on receiving offers of free land for homesteading.

"The district has changed much since I was a girl," said Miss Anderson. "There were plenty of open fields around here and a cool crystal spring ran through the district."

The habits of people have also changed," she said. "We thought nothing of walking to the Gorge to see the boat races and then walking to Beacon Hill Park to see the fireworks."

Miss Anderson lost her Yugoslav Trade Mission to Canada.

BELGRADE (AP) — Eight Yugoslav businessmen, representing major state-owned companies left Sunday night for the United States and Canada to boost trade. Headed by Ivan Barbalic, secretary-general of the Federal Foreign Trade Chamber, the delegation is due in New York Wednesday.

FAST TIME SCHEDULES FOR BLACK BALL, TCA

Gardeners, golfers, ballplayers and handymen take note: This is your last week of winter hibernation.

No more lazy evenings sprawled in front of the TV.

Daylight saving goes into operation at midnight Saturday, bringing with it an extra hour in the evenings to tackle odd jobs around the yard or head for the ballpark.

There'll be the usual gripes from the more hardy who'll be rising at 6 a.m. in darkness, but daylight saving will be here to stay until the end of September.

If you're going on a trip, transportation schedules will have to be double-checked.

Some companies, such as CPR and CNR steamships and railways, will stay on Standard. Trans-Canada Air Lines and Black Ball Ferries will shift over to fast time.

MONTÉ ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about the Sasquatch. Fortunately, I do not know much about the Sasquatch. Among things I do not know about the Sasquatch is, how to spell them.

(Presuming they are plural.) But (fortunately) the proof-readers of this newspaper know how to spell Sasquatch, just as they know how to spell Cadborosaurus and Rumpelstiltskin.

Which gives me a chance to tell all I know about the Sasquatch.

The first thing I know about the Sasquatch is, when the Italian gentleman who adopted the Spanish name of Juan de Fuca first sailed down the Strait of the same name, he almost landed in the inner harbor.

Legend has it that Juan de Fuca did not land because he was frightened by the appearance of the Sasquatch on the lawn before the Legislative Buildings.

According to legend, he took Juan look at them, and vanished.

But modern day historians have a different version; they state that Juan de Fuca's vessel veered off to avoid fouling a garbage scow, and in so doing, inadvertently changed course and returned to Spain.

Or was it Italy.

Little more was heard of the Sasquatch until Captain Cook's voyage of exploration, which brought him close to what is now Victoria.

Captain Cook, having had trouble with the products of the aalely aboard, sent a boat to shore to find a new chef.

The boat was greeted by a competent-looking Sasquatch, who, when asked, replied, "Yes, I can cook."

So the Sasquatch climbed into the boat (luckily it was a large one) and was taken to Captain Cook's ship.

And the first thing Captain Cook asked for was a tomato and lettuce sandwich without mayonnaise, but the Sasquatch believed in doing things in a big way, so he made Captain Cook a tomato and lettuce sandwich WITH mayonnaise—no mean feat, considering neither tomatoes, lettuce, nor mayonnaise had yet been invented.

When the Captain remonstrated with the Sasquatch, the Sasquatch said:

"You Captain?"

"Yes," replied the Captain.

"You Cook," continued the Sasquatch.

"Yes, I'm Captain," was the reply, "I'm Cook."

"You Captain, you cook," advised the Sasquatch.

So Capt. Cook went away, and things have never been quite the same in the Royal Navy.

This, fortunately, is all I know about the Sasquatch.

High point in a campaign of useful form by pulling nails and trimming the ends where necessary.

Some of the lumber was kept, but there was a surplus which was sold for a tidy profit.

The $50,000 will be put into it will represent an $80,000 investment when it's finished at the end of August, Mr. Murray said.

The complete building, to be known as "Holyrood House," will have one large hall, two smaller halls, two lounges with fireplaces, a dining room, kitchen with all necessary facilities, and a caretaker's suite.

Interior decoration and furniture will be in keeping with the Scottish baronial style of the building.

"We are exceedingly proud of the hall," Mr. Murray said. "People here are talking of building an auditorium, but little is being done. Our project is an example of a community effort by a small group, and of what faith and work can accomplish."

Profits from this and subsequent shows formed the nucleus of a hall fund and, according to Dave Murray, an official of the company, "we've managed to pay cash for everything to date."

One excellent source of both material and income was a two-story barrack block at Patricia Bay Airport which the society purchased. Men members took the building apart, piece by piece, and the ladies of the society converted the lumber into Enrolment at most North American universities will be doubled over the next 13 years unless selective methods are introduced.

That is the opinion of university officials of the Western Association of College and University Business Officers at the Empress Hotel.

"Serious overcrowding will develop over the next few years unless the entry of students is limited by their ability and aptitude," said William J. Bartz, bursar at Idaho State College.

"Many of my colleagues share this view. The crucial issue is whether we should accept all students wanting university education, or admit only those of proven ability."

Mr. Bartz was interested in the suggestion from many quarters that Victoria College should be given the status of a university to relieve overcrowding at the University of British Columbia.

"We had a parallel case in Idaho," he said. "Until 10 years ago Idaho State College was just a training ground for the University of Idaho. Now we have university status and we have relieved much of the overcrowding at the senior university."

Prof. E. D. MacPhee, dean of commerce and business administration at UBC, welcomed some 125 officers and wives from colleges and universities in the Pacific Northwest when the four-day conference opened today.

Harry E. Brakehill, business manager of San Francisco State College, said the central idea behind the organization is the exchange of administrative ideas.

Speed-Up on Malahat Called 'Pointless'

Any attempt to speed up work on the Malahat road project would be pointless at present, Campbell-Bennett Construction Co. director, Robert Campbell, told the Times today from Vancouver.

This is because dirt cannot yet be moved due to wet weather, he said.

He was answering Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group chairman Sam Lane, who Saturday called for a 24-hour shift of workers to get the scenic route into condition for the peak of the tourist season.

"If we had speeded up the work, the public couldn't have got through the mud, as this is not a good dirt-moving spring," said Mr. Campbell.

"Dirt and water don't mix." He said the 24-hour working suggestion "is all very good, but it's a small matter of cost."

Assistant professor in UBC's department of pediatrics, Dr. Henry G. Dunn will address the annual meeting of the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island in the medical lecture room, Royal Jubilee Hospital, next Monday at 8 p.m.

Two B.C. cabinet ministers were released from hospitals over the weekend following minor operations.

Health Minister Eric Martin went home from St. Joseph's Hospital Saturday. He underwent an operation April 12 for an undisclosed ailment.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood was discharged Sunday from St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver.

Earlier in the week he had undergone minor abdominal surgery, his second such operation within a few months.

Police Car Hit, Three Injured

Driver Faces Charge; 12 Hurt Over Holiday

A Saanich police car, in charge of deputy chief Jack Hamilton, was damaged to the extent of about $700 in a rear-end collision on Shelbourne at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Police said the patrol car was stopped at the roadside facing north at Earlston while the deputy checked another car.

A small car approaching from the south and driven by William James Cook, Sidney, collided with the rear of the police car, sending it into the rear of the other car, which was not damaged.

Cook was taken with minor chest injury to HMCS Naden Hospital and his passengers, Sharon Polson, 18, and Mary Lamoureux, both of 5024 Patricia Bay Highway, were treated at Jubilee Hospital for minor abrasions.

Police charged Cook with careless driving.

Holiday weekend traffic accidents sent 12 persons to hospital for treatment of injuries ranging from minor cuts to head injuries and possible fractures.

Following a two-car crash on the Malahat about 2 p.m. Sunday, Norman Bennett, 54, of Vancouver, and Dave Dumas, 23, of Alberni, were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Bennett is in fair condition with wrist and hip injuries, the hospital reported. Dumas, with a hip injury, is in fairly good condition.

Mrs. Iris Stevens, 34, 4922 Cordova Bay, received head injuries when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a power pole on Bay about 90 feet east of Rock Bay at 3.30 a.m. Sunday.

GOOD CONDITION She was taken to St. Joseph's where her condition is reported as good.

Driver was Ernest A. Stevens, of the same address, who was uninjured.

Also treated at St. Joseph's was Yvonne Sullivan, 17, who received facial cuts in a minor mishap on Whiffin Spit Road, Sooke, at about 2 a.m. Sunday. She was discharged.

At 1.55 a.m. Sunday, Harvey B. Chapman, 18, 1739 Bay, arrived at St. Joseph's to be treated for a slight elbow injury received when his car collided

THOSE CLOUDS ARE GETTING THICKER...

Movement of a weather disturbance north of here will cause clouds to thicken today with the likelihood of rain showers this evening, according to weatherman William Mackie.

There will be some clearing behind the storm, he said, but skies will still be cloudy Tuesday with occasional sunny periods.

Temperatures will remain in the cool range of from 43 to 55 degrees Tuesday, and winds will be westerly at 20 miles per hour.

Precipitation to date has fallen on nine days for a total of .88 inch, and the sunshine total to date is a rather sparse 148.7 hours. Record for the month was established in 1951, when the sun shone brightly for 303.4 hours.

Harrison, was in collision with a car driven by Robert Charles Harvey, 1940 Forrester, outside 1420 Fort as the boy attempted to cross the street.

Jubilee Hospital reported him in satisfactory condition today, recovering from head injuries.

FESTIVAL OPENS SUNDAY

5,000 Visitors For Spring Fete

More than 5,000 people, the largest influx of visitors to come to Victoria at this time of the year, are expected for the city's two-week Springtime Festival opening next Sunday.

B. J. Tennyson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce festival committee, said visitors will be coming for the festival from as far east as Port Arthur, Ont., and from all parts of the western United States.

"Starting next Sunday visitors will start pouring into Victoria," he said. "They are coming here by rail, ship and plane."

Many hotels and auto courts report they are booked heavily for the two festival weeks.

The influx of visitors will be augmented with the arrival of 1,500 delegates for a convention of the Prudential Insurance Corp. of America which opens at the Empress Hotel on May 1.

The Victoria Horticultural Society reported over 700 visitors are expected for its four-day garden festival starting on May 1.

The festival, which features tours of some of the city's best private gardens, is one of the big attractions of the city's springtime fete.

Major G. A. Wiggan, secretary of the society, said about 300 visitors are expected to arrive in Victoria on special buses from various centres in Washington and Oregon. This did not include hundreds of others who will be arriving by plane and in private cars.

EXCURSION RATES The CPR and CNR said special excursion rates for the festival also will draw a large number of visitors from the three Prairie provinces.

The festival will be preceded by the annual spring flower show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society at the Crystal Garden on Friday and Saturday.

Some visitors will be arriving in advance to take in the colorful show—the largest of its kind in North America. The show will feature plants which have never been exhibited anywhere on this continent.

In conjunction with the Springtime Festival, the CPR Steamships will start its summer run between Victoria and Port Angeles Sunday.

The Princess Elizabeth, to make the first run of the year between Port Angeles and Victoria, will become a "garden festival" ship.

FIREBOAT DISPLAY It will be greeted by a fireboat display staged by a tug of the Island Tug and Barge Ltd. in Victoria Harbor. The ship will arrive here at 1.20 p.m. daylight saving time.

The Victoria Girls' Drill Team and a High School band will be on hand to greet the visitors on the Elizabeth.

To mark the opening of the festival and the arrival of the Princess Elizabeth, Christ Church Cathedral will ring a peal of bells at 1.30 Sunday.

The visitors will have plenty of attractions during their stay in Victoria.

Some of the festival events include the "Chocolate Soldier" by the Gilbert and Sullivan Society at the Royal Theatre on April 29 through May 1, and the Greater Victoria musical festival on May 7.

Another major event is a Folk Festival on May 3. It will feature singing and dancing by German, Norwegian, Swedish, Hungarian, Scottish and Ukrainian groups.

There also will be the Western Square Dance Jamboree featuring some 600 dancers and 24 clubs in this area.

14 SCORE YEARS AND 10

Combined ages totalling 290 years are shared by these three ladies, two of whom celebrate birthdays today, one tomorrow. Mrs. Frances Boorman is 93 today; Mrs. Susan Moore 98 Tuesday; Mrs. Isabel Reid 99 today. All reside at Manor Private Hospital. (Times Photo.)

BUT DON'T TRY IT HERE, WARNS POLICE CHIEF

New B.C. Law Permits U-Turns

According to the new B.C. Motor Vehicle Act, motorists new act, which became law on March 28, from George Lindsay, superintendent of motor vehicles.

But unless you're hunting for a ticket—don't try it. Police Chief John Blackstock given to city policemen to allow said today he has been attempting to obtain clarification of the new act, which became law on March 28, from George Lindsay, superintendent of motor vehicles.

No instructions have been given to city policemen to allow U-turns in the middle of a block and other places previously prohibited, Chief Blackstock said.

Under the new act, motorists can turn anywhere as long as he does not interfere with the flow of traffic.

U-turns cannot be made, however, on a curve, on an approach to or near a crest of a hill where the vehicle can't be seen by the driver of an oncoming car for a distance of 500 feet, or at a place where a sign prohibits a U-turn.

Police in Vancouver have been directed to enforce the new act.

Chief Blackstock said a number of sections of the act are "contradictory" and need clarification.

Fibreglass Insulated Bags Keep Food Hot or Cold
By PENNY SAVER

If you want the food kept hot, it stays hot; if you want it cold, it stays cold. Yes, this is a wonderful fibreglass insulated case that holds food or drink for your summertime or winter-time outings. The case, with comfortable carrying handle is of adaptable plastic in bright yellow, red or blue. It can be wiped clean with a damp cloth in a jiffy. The top has a zipper that runs the full length of the case, so it is easy to get articles out. The cases are big enough to hold two thermos bottles as well as the miscellaneous food. This is a buy that will be appreciated more and more everytime you use it, for it will go everywhere with you. The price is $4.95.

Any green-thumbed youngsters in the house? Now is the perfect time to introduce the children to gardening; the weather is wonderful and the ground just right. Even the smallest members of the household can have fun in a little garden plot, for toy manufacturers have now come up with miniature plastic garden tools that are colorful, usable and non-breakable. You can bend, drop or knock over the little wheelbarrow or the rake, hoe or shovel and they'll come up like new. You can even wash them when the day's play is through. The wheelbarrow even has a rubber wheel, just like a large one, so Junior will love it. The complete set sells for $1.19.

More toys . . . these are meant especially for little boys and little tomboys who love to play cowboys and Indians. What else, but bow and arrow sets! Of course, the arrows have harmless suction rubber tips on them, so no eyes will be endangered. War whoops and yells will resound in the play yard, and the children will have a wonderful time with these sets, selling for 59c. Included is a bow and three arrows, all brightly colored.

A small item for mother's little helper is a new straw broom, a miniature of mother's. Sturdy and definitely useful, these brooms are also handy to carry in the car for quick sweep-out jobs. The price is 59c.

Would you like to know where I found these items mentioned today? Call me at 2-3131 and I'll gladly tell you where I shopped.

On Etiquette

Even your best friend should not tell you:

I find it very embarrassing if a woman at a party informs me that I have a runner in my stocking that I hadn't noticed. I don't think it kind or gracious to do this to a person. To tell you that you slip shows is different, because you can retire for a moment and fix it. But if you go Louise Davis and mend your stocking, it's even more noticeable than the runner itself. Do you agree?

Louise Davis answers: Yes, I do. It is very unkind to tell the runner-wearer, for there is nothing that she can do about it. From that moment on, she is usually self-conscious, uncomfortable and embarrassed. If she were totally unaware of her runner, she would enjoy herself much more at a party or anywhere else.

But after being told about it, she tries desperately to hide it from anyone else. Unless a woman makes a point of displaying her shapely legs, how many people at a party would notice a runner? If they do, it's quickly forgotten. A runner in a stocking isn't going to ruin a party, nor should it ruin the enjoyable time of the wearer. No one is going to say that Jane Brown is slovenly. Every woman knows that it can happen to her, for it already has happened many times in her life. People who call attention to a runner mean well, but, in the final analysis, they are thoughtless.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In 9 Days a New You—If You Follow this Diet

With spring bursting out all over with a new look, why don't we? Why not approach life with a more vibrant viewpoint? A loss of even a few pounds, which makes us feel stiffer and look as though we had stuffed too much, would be a great help! Often a woman is just 10 pounds away from a lovely figure. Since she is not greatly overweight she is apt to allow these 10 extra pounds to linger on. This is too bad because these can make the difference between a youthful silhouette and one which appears middle aged.

Each spring I bring you my 9-Day Reducing Diet. In nine short days you can lose from five to 10 pounds if you follow the menus.

Tuesday's menu:

BREAKFAST

Half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, black coffee.

MID MORNING

Glass of tomato juice.

LUNCHEON

Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing, 1 slice lamb roast (don't eat the fat), one glass skimmed milk, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

DINNER

One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces), one-half cup squash (yellow preferable), one-half cup string beans, one glass skimmed milk, one apple.

All the menus will appear in this column for nine days. So come on—there's no excuse for missing the chance to lose 10 pounds! If you would like to have my 9-Day Diet booklet send 10 cents and a stamped, self addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

EASTER SUNDAY WAS LADIES' DAY ON FIFTH AVENUE

NEW YORK—Smiles outweighed tears three to one as these young ladies displayed new bonnets in Easter Sunday parade on New York's Fifth Avenue. Actress Ceane Courtney, left, of Los Angeles, wore one of natural straw with silk garden flowers. Singer Jane Morgan, next, of Boston, Mass., featured black silk poppy hat. Tearful Pamela Defeo, 2, of Philadelphia, was garbed in yellow straw hat of yellow buttercups and roses and yellow bows on pony tail. Mrs. Christina Kocinska, at right, of Brooklyn, N.Y., displayed chapeaux of yellow silk roses. (AP Wirephoto.Q)

Trio in Turquoise Gowns Attends Bride, Miss Smith

Three attendants in princess style gowns of turquoise taffeta were in the entourage accompanying Miss Anne Beverley Smith into Victoria Truth Centre Saturday evening when she became the bride of Daniel McMillan.

Miss Smith was lovely in a full-length princess style gown of brocade satin. Tiny seed pearls highlighted the V-neckline and sleeves were long, tapering to lily points. A heart-shaped headpiece held her fingertip veil of illusion net.

The bouquet was a cascade of red roses, white hyacinth florets and white satin ribbon.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, 1422 Lang Street, was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor was Miss Katherine Lawrence; bridesmatron, Mrs. Carol Senft and bridesmaid, Miss Josephine Humber, cousin of the bride. To complement their gowns, they carried cascade bouquets of yellow daffodils and hyacinth florets.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Millar, 211 Cook Street, had James Pickup as best man, and William Senft and Earl Smith, brother of the bride, as ushers.

Rev. Emma M. Smiley officiated at the ceremony, performed in a setting of white snapdragons and calla lilies in tall baskets. Pianist Mrs. S. J. Chiver, all played traditional wedding music and accompanied soloist Mrs. E. H. Smith, who sang "Because."

John Small proposed the toast to the bride at a reception party held in the Golden Slipper. White candles and pink rosebuds flanked the three-tier wedding cake centring the bride's table.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., the bride wore a grey wool box suit with pink and navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Millar will live at 147 St. Andrews Street when they return.

Back at 'Woodwyn'

Mrs. W. C. Woodward, has returned to her home, "Woodwyn Farm," Saanich, after a visit in Montreal. She stopped briefly in Vancouver en route to Vancouver Island.

At Supper Dance

Three wedding anniversaries were celebrated at a well-attended supper dance in the Crystal Ballroom of the Empress Hotel, Saturday night. Billy Tickle and his orchestra, with Irene Anik singing the vocals, played anniversary music for Dr. and Mrs. Pierre d'Estrube, Mr. and Mrs. James Kinmonth and Mr. and Mrs. J. Warr, all celebrating with parties of friends.

In a party to honor Mr. and Mrs. John T. Coleman from Vancouver were Miss Carolyn Jarvie, Mr. Robin Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Zaluski and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cribbens.

In another group were Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Wallis, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. H. Spillsbury, Mr. and Mrs. G. McKee, Mrs. R. Celombier of Los Angeles and Mr. Harold McWilliams.

Celebrating the engagement of Miss Davida Campbell and Mr. Gerry Mark were Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. M. Zabel.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. B. Falcon, Mr. and Mrs. Kinmonth, Mr. W. G. Ferrie and Miss A. Gallie, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Porter attended with Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bryson and Dr. and Mrs. Alan Daysmith.

In a party with Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Blannin were Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Housner and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Russell of West Vancouver. Also dancing at the Empress, Saturday night, were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Carrier, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Usher, Mr. and Mrs. Ray R. Rawnsley and Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith.

Wedding Guests

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell came from Ioco, B.C., to attend the Grexton-Ainscough wedding in St. John's Church Saturday evening. Also here for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Stenseth and daughter from Vancouver.

From Kitimat to attend the Millar-Smith wedding Saturday evening in the Victoria Truth Centre were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith. Others here were Mr. and Mrs. V. Smith, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith, Squamish; Mr. and Mrs. Neil Gray, Duncan, and Mrs. Sam Wall, Kelowna.

No Man Is 'Downright Bad' Says Yukon's First Lady, Martha Black

VANCOUVER (CP)—A woman who left a comfortable Chicago to dare the rigors of the Chilkoot Pass alongside thousands of men in the Klondike gold rush, says after 60 years:

"I never yet met a man I didn't like and I never met a man who was downright bad."

That's how Martha Louise Black, 91-year-old sourdough and wife of former House of Commons Speaker George Black, recalls her life in the Yukon, "a man's land."

Mrs. Black herself sat in the House representing the territory for five years, the only term between 1921 and 1949 that her husband didn't make it, because of illness.

AT REUNION
The famous pair, whose tireless service to their beloved North earned them the title of the "first citizen" and "first lady" of the Yukon, flew here from their home in Whitehorse, Y.T., for the annual Yukoners' reunion.

They are as much a part of that fabulous gold rush era as the old stowaways who once plied their wits of fortune and now line the banks, weather-beaten and worn but strictly sourdough.

Mrs. Black, confined to a wheelchair because of rheumatism and a bad fall a year ago, refutes the suggestion she is a "lady."

"Men," she mused, in an interview, "have always respected me, but because I met them on their own ground."

"I have a hell of a temper and if they annoyed me, I could swear any man to shame. The women didn't like me too well. They called me 'that American'—I was raised in Chicago—but they never called me a lady in those days."

Mrs. Black has snowy hair and is wrinkled with age, but she speaks with the fire of a woman less than half her age, displaying a sharp wit and keen memory.

She loves to tease her husband, who at 84 is seven years her junior. They have been married 50 years.

"You lied to me about your age when we met," she chided. "I didn't lie," returned George with that blue-eyed twinkle. "I just didn't tell you."

"I never would have married you if you didn't have a sense of humor," she said.

Mrs. Black landed in Dawson City on July 4, 1897, after the arduous trek from Skagway "where I was one of 200 women among 2,000 men."

But a woman was just "as safe there as anywhere today," she said.

"If you wanted to be good, the men respected you for it. But if you wanted to be the dance-hall type, there was lots of opportunity."

"Times haven't changed."

Would she do it over again, relive the hardships of the rugged gold-rush days?

"You bet I would," she replied, stoutly. "I've enjoyed every minute of it. I've had a hell of a wonderful time."

Mungo Martin Totems Raised at Courtenay

COURTENAY — Two new totem poles carved by Mungo Martin were erected Saturday at the entrance to Lewis Park before a crowd of hundreds which included chiefs from neighboring tribes.

Mayor Geoffrey Browning of Courtenay welcomed former mayor Joseph Hitchen and W. C. Moore, former MLA, who had been made honorary chiefs at previous ceremonies.

Comox Chief Andrew Frank had charge of arrangements, and one of the main speakers was Chief Billy Assu of Cape Mudge. He said the Indians of Comox Valley now are living in peace, "unlike crazy white people."

The new poles were raised by cranes, but Chief Crammer of Alert Bay described how poles used to be raised with tree branches, and with the body of a slave in the hole prepared for the base of a pole.

Native dances followed the pole-raising, and a reception at a local hotel concluded the program.

RCMP Honors Cpl. Byce At Funeral

DUNCAN — Cpl. Harold Kenneth (Pat) Byce, 48, who died at his home early Wednesday, was buried Saturday with full RCMP honors.

Inspector C. H. Harvey of Victoria was in charge of the funeral detail, which included eight honorary pallbearers, a 12-man firing party, and trumpeter.

$20,000 Plan For Water

PARKSVILLE (CP) — Village commissioners have budgeted for a maximum expenditure of $20,000 to finance a project to increase the municipal water supply.

The appropriation includes funds for a 20,000-gallon, covered, concrete storage reservoir and a new walk-in pump-house.

It was estimated by the engineers that current water consumption is 150,000 gallons per day and 136,000 gallons is being lost through lack of storage space.

Hospital Day Set for May 10

CHEMUNUS — Open house at Chemunus General Hospital will be held on Hospital Day, May 10. The hospital auxiliary will operate special sale stalls on the hospital lawn and serve tea during the afternoon. In the event of poor weather, the stalls will be in the basement of the Baptist Church.

Free films will be shown to youngsters in the board room while their parents are touring hospital premises.

Date for the annual blood donor clinic was set by the auxiliary for the end of July. Prior to the clinic, members of Chemunus Kinsmen Club will canvass the district for pledges.

TENDERS
SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and marked "TENDER FOR SINGLE DWELLING AND DEMOLITION WORK CARMANAH POINT" will be received up to 3:30 p.m. (B.C.T.), THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1957, for the construction of a single dwelling and the demolition of the existing dwelling at Carmanah Point, B.C.

Plans, specifications, labor conditions, contract form, form of tender and return tender envelope may be obtained on application to the District Marine Agent, Department of Transport, Federal Building, Victoria, B.C., upon receipt of an accepted cheque made payable to the Receiver General of Canada for the sum of $25.00. This cheque will be returned upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition. Additional information, required, will be furnished on interpretation of plans and specifications may be obtained from the aforementioned District Marine Agent.

Plans and specifications will also be on display at the Victoria Building Industries Exchange, 816 Wharf Street, Victoria, B.C.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit equal to ten per cent (10%) of the tender price which security deposit will be forfeited in the event of a tenderer refusing to enter into a contract on the basis of his tender if called upon to do so, or failing to satisfactorily complete such a contract. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. Kindly note that no tenders will be accepted by telegram.

Any tender not accompanied by a security deposit as described will not be considered.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

CCF'er Barnett Sees Liberal Win; Says Bennett No Messiah in East

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A CCF member of Parliament has conceded that the Liberals will probably be returned to power in the June 10 federal election, but said it is a realistic objective for the CCF to try to aspire to be the official opposition.

Tom Barnett, member for Comox-Alberni, made the statement Saturday night at a public rally at which he also derided Premier Bennett.

NO MESSIAH
Mr. Barnett said the premier "won't appear as a Messiah in Eastern Canada."

In expressing hopes for a Social Credit majority in the next Parliament, he said, Mr. Barnett has overlooked the fact that the people of Ontario and Quebec have been prospering as much as those in B.C. under their respective provincial governments.

He said the "most important single issue" of the election campaign is the "inflationary problem."

"At least the Liberals admit there is a problem, although they have done nothing to correct it," Social Credit in B.C. had not recognized the problem, he said.

John Squire, CCF member of the legislature for Alberni, announced that two delegates each from the Sproat Lake Ratepayers' Association and the Alberni Fish and Game Association will go with him to Victoria April 30 to discuss planned hydro development on Sproat Lake.

He told the rally that he will continue to do everything possible to save Sproat Lake beaches from being ruined by the hydro project.

LEIS FOR GUESTS

Hawaiian Night Set for Friday

Metropolitan United Church Young Adults group is organizing a "Night in Hawaii" to be held at Pendray Hall, corner of Quadra and Johnson, next Friday at 8 p.m.

Two Hawaiian girls will perform native songs and dances and a technicolor film on Hawaii will be shown.

A fashion display of summer clothes is being put on by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd., and leis will be distributed among the guests.

Proceeds will go to a scholarship for Christian education. Admission is 75 cents for adults, 35 cents for persons under 12.

New Moose Order Home Open Saturday

New home of Victoria Lodge No. 1390, Loyal Order of Moose, 514 Fort, will be officially opened next Saturday at 4 p.m. by Mayor Percy Scutth.

The 100-member lodge purchased the building, formerly occupied by the Veterans of France, for $15,000. The downstairs section is now leased, and Moose meetings—every second and fourth Friday—will be held on the second floor.

Extensive renovations followed purchase a few months ago.

After the dedication ceremony, a 6 p.m. banquet will be held, and at 8 p.m. installation of officers of Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo lodges.

Visitors are expected from all northwest lodges and chapters. Dancing follows from 9 p.m. to midnight.

Parley at UBC To Discuss Plight of Aged

Nursing care, medical rehabilitation and housing for the aged will be discussed at the first B.C. conference on needs and problems of the aging at UBC May 14 to 17.

The conference will be conducted by visiting consultants from Great Britain, the United States and Canada for lay and professional persons working with the aged.

Among members of the conference committee is William Hoosen, administrator of Victoria's social welfare department. Sponsors are the Community Chest and Council of Greater Vancouver and UBC.

Director of Silver Threads Association here, Glen Hamilton, will address the conference on "Con-seling," at a symposium, Thursday, May 16.

Other speakers will include Louis Kuplan, executive secretary, Citizens' Advisory Committee on Aging, California; and Mrs. Barbara Shenfield, former chairman, Advisory and Welfare Services of Birmingham (U.K.) Council for Old People.

Vancouver Harbor Floats Approved For 3 Air Lines

Department of Transport in Ottawa has said that permission has been given to three air line companies to set up landing floats and equipment in Vancouver harbor.

They are Pacific Western Airlines, Vancouver; B.C. Air Lines, Victoria and Vancouver; and Cassidair Ltd., Nanaimo.

Cassidair operates now between Nanaimo and Vancouver harbor, B.C. Air Lines mainland operations are at Sea Island.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—watch your diet—get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "tired-out" feeling, due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years Dadd's Kidney Pills have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order—helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, Dadd's Kidney Pills may help you, too. You can depend on Dadd's.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, April 21st —The Butcher, the Banker and me... that's the way I like to figure things out on payday... making sure to include myself with my creditors by adding a set sum to my "special purpose" account at the BANK OF MONTREAL. I've learned that it's the best way to get the things I really want. So far, this plan has paved the way for a number of useful purchases, including a portable TV set for the summer cottage and the down-payment on a new piano for the children's music lessons. And right now my savings account can provide me with a fresh Spring wardrobe and, come December next, there should be enough to take care of Christmas needs nicely. So next payday, make sure to include your B of M "special purpose" savings account with your creditors... and you'll be able to meet opportunity when it comes your way.

SECRET OF A GOOD COOK, I've found, time and again, is a knack with flavoring. That's why so many of the best cooks I know use SHIRRIFF'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS. Each one has the perfection of quality we cooks have come to associate with Shirriff's—the fresh, true flavor that keeps its strength because it's pure. And the great variety of flavors—17 of them!—means that you can have just the right flavor for any dessert, or baking. Use the fruit flavors to bring out that true sun-ripened fruit flavor that's so delicate... and do try the peppermint, mint, maple rum, rose and coconut, for other menu treats. Yes, Shirriff's are the best, by far!

"THEY'RE TERRIFIC!" Just heard that glad cry from a teenager who's been miserable about her heaviness. I told her about delicious tasting AYDS and the Ayds Plan—just as I've been telling you. She has been using them—and ten pounds have gone already! Nothing else worked for her—because she's a healthy, hungry girl who can't stick to a diet! But by taking an Ayds, before meals, as directed, her appetite has been just naturally curbed. She eats less—and the pounds are melting! There's no nervousness, no sleeplessness or other "side-effects" either. You'll find Ayds and the Ayds Plan "Terrific," too! At all drug counters.

Mayflower Making Steady 4 Knots

ST. KEVERNE, England (AP)—Mayflower II, replica of the 17th century Pilgrim Fathers' ship, sailed out of sight of the English coast today as she headed for the United States.

Soon after dawn the little wooden sailing vessel was spotted by the coast guard 15 miles out from the Lizard, southernmost point of England's coast. Half an hour later she was out of sight.

A coast guard officer said "on her course she has seen the last land until she approaches her destination."

The ship left Plymouth, England, Saturday, bound for Plymouth, Mass. For more than 24 hours she dawdled in the English Channel with hardly a breath of wind to fill her sails.

HAS FULL SAILS — But the 180-ton Mayflower, with a crew of 32 aboard, had "her sails full set" today, the coast guard said.

There was a light northerly wind, and the ship appeared to be making a steady three or four knots.

Skipper Alan Villiers, Australian seafarer, hopes to land the ship in Massachusetts in about six weeks. He has said it all depends on weather conditions in the Atlantic.

The journey around the Lizard and into the open sea was

U.S. Postpones Payment by U.K.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower signed a bill Saturday granting authority for Britain to postpone up to seven annual payments of principal and interest on her debt to the United States.

The new law amends the 1945 agreement which called for Britain to make annual payments of about $134,000,000 on her lend-lease debt and a post-war loan of $3,750,000,000 from the U.S.

LOST IN GOV'T HOUSE FIRE

Artist Will Re-Do Paintings for Ross

Two oil paintings lost in the Government House fire last Monday will be repainted by the same artist.

Polish-born Gina Greinert of Vancouver said she will do the canvases again without fee.

The first was a portrait of former Lieutenant-Governor Dr. T. R. McInnes, and the second a large canvas of a Government House garden party last year. The portrait hung in the main hall gallery and the other in an upstairs suite.

The McInnes portrait was unveiled in February at the State Ball at the opening of the legislature.

Dr. McInnes served from 1897 to 1900, when he was ousted from office for dabbling in politics, and his picture had never been included in the gallery of governors.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross decided to let by-gones be by-gones and commissioned Mrs. Greinert to do the painting. All portraits in the gallery had been cleaned and re-lighted by Mr. Ross shortly before the disastrous fire when all canvases were lost.

Mrs. Greinert has also been commissioned to paint the portrait of Arthur Edward Kennedy, a colonial governor, who was also missing from the gallery.

The artist will repaint the two portraits from sketches and colored photographs of the completed original.

Expressing sympathy for the loss sustained by Lieutenant-Governor Ross, Mrs. Greinert said:

"I lost so many of my treasured possessions in my Warsaw studio when it was burned down during the war that I understand the terrible loss he must feel."

'AFRAID OF GAS'

Anonymous Confession In Car Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An anonymous "confession" to the savage hit-run killing of Lloyd V. Stephens was received by police Saturday.

The typewritten letter, mailed in Berkeley, Calif., said he wanted to surrender but was "afraid I will go to the gas chamber."

"I will turn myself in if you will promise to let me off as easily as you can."

The letter did not mention the frenzied efforts of the hit-run driver to shake Stephens' body loose from the car after the 62-year-old machinist was struck Sunday night at a street intersection.

Stephens was dragged for three blocks while the automobile swerved and its tires squealed in a series of violent starts and stops.

Stephens might have survived had the driver stopped when the car hit him, doctors said.

Police were aware the letter might be the work of a crank.

Lt. Edward Moody, of the Accident Investigation Bureau immediately issued a call for the writer to surrender.

Moody conferred with Dist. Atty. Thomas C. Lynch, who said, "This is not a first-degree murder offence. The writer need not be afraid of the gas chamber."

A REAL EASTER PARADE

Vehicular traffic was stopped for several hours as a section of the avenue was blocked by paraders. (See hats, Page 15). Victorians, too—although no organized parade was held—were decked out in their finest. (AP Wirephoto.)

WEATHER GOOD—EXCEPT IN WEST

Easter Worship Attracts Millions Across Canada

By The Canadian Press
An Anglican congregation in Montreal gathered to pray in a turned-out church. In Vancouver and Winnipeg, families ignored splashing rain to promenade in spring finery.

It was Easter Sunday, the occasion for Canadians to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the rebirth of nature. Worship began in the Atlantic provinces Saturday night when the Maritimes' Roman Catholics attended midnight mass. By Sunday evening millions of Canadians of Christian faith had been to church. The weather was good for Easter parading in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec and most places in the Atlantic provinces. British Columbia's mainland, however, was drenched with heavy rains, and Victoria's Easter was cold and dull, with wind most of the day and showers in the afternoon.

In Montreal, St. Jude's Anglican Church, damaged by fire four weeks ago, was reopened for Easter services and parishioners worshipped obliviously to the charred ruins. Atop Mount Royal, hundreds gathered in the chaise for the 26th annual Easter sunrise service. In the afternoon more than 20,000 fashionable Montrealers, some displaying the latest creations from Paris, London, Rome and New York, promenaded through the parks.

3,000 LILIES
Toronto, basking in hot sunshine, staged a large Easter parade which included beautiful girls, well-dressed dogs and 1957 model automobiles. The commercial aspect—a group of mid-town businessmen sponsored the parade—was offset by church services attended by thousands during the morning. Crowds were lined up for a block outside Timothy Eaton Memorial Church between 10:30 a.m.

Perhaps the best-attended services were at First Presbyterian Church in Picton, N.S., where 3,000 lilies were placed again this year by a Bermuda man who refuses to permit his name to be disclosed. More than 5,000 persons attended four services. A gusty wind gave feminine strollers anxious moments as it tugged at their frilly dresses while they strolled Parliament Hill in Ottawa. The wind also offered protection to the ladies, however, since male observers were blinded by dust.

QUIET AND PEACEFUL

Jerusalem Pilgrims Mark Resurrection

JERUSALEM (AP)—A handful of Easter pilgrims gathered in front of the Garden Tomb just outside the walls of Old Jerusalem Sunday for a sunrise service marking Christ's resurrection.

Some say this is the tomb from which Jesus emerged on the first Easter morning. It is situated inside the ancient garden with its own cistern and wine press, indicating it was once the property of a rich man like Joseph of Arimathea who provided Christ's burial place.

The climax of the Latin services in the old city came Sunday morning when Patriarch Alberto Gori walked over the flagstoned streets from his seat deep inside the old city to the Holy Sepulchre to celebrate Easter mass.

Consuls from Roman Catholic countries—preceded by liveried dragonmen beating silver-tipped batons on the pavement—walked in procession and sat as honored guests at the service.

In the windup of Easter week observances, a sunrise service was held also outside the Church of Scotland in the Israeli sector of Jerusalem. Approximately 100 Christian pilgrims crossed from Israel into the old city to spend Easter. They included clergymen, members of the consular corps and some visitors. As they entered the old city other pilgrims were trickling back into Israel through the Mandelbaum gate.

About 400 crossed on Good Friday and planned to return today. Despite Middle East tensions, Jerusalem was quiet during Easter week and pilgrims enjoyed devotions in peace.

The crises of the last few months have inhibited the flow of foreign tourists into Jerusalem to some extent, but all in all it was the best Easter Arab Jerusalem has known in at least two years. Last year the hotels were almost empty.

PRISON EASTER

Moving Scene At Oakalla For Services

VANCOUVER (CP)—For two hours Sunday afternoon Oakalla prison ceased almost to be a prison.

Even the guards wore civilian clothing as 105 prisoners and their families were united for an Easter Sunday church service.

Prison officials described the service as "successful and moving." It was held by the Salvation Army in co-operation with prison padre Rev. Grant Hollingworth.

The sermon, saying that men committed to prison should not give up hope, was delivered jointly by Commissioner and Mrs. Wycliffe Booth, heads of the Salvation Army in Canada.

"I have visited hundreds of prisons in my life but I don't think I have ever encountered such a moving experience," said Commissioner Booth.

"I saw men holding the hands of their children. I saw tears everywhere."

Commissioner Booth said he would press for similar services across Canada.

Queen Feted by Crowd of 5,000—Princess Beats Time With Jig

(From CP and UP Dispatches)
LONDON (UP)—Queen Elizabeth, who had planned to celebrate her 31st birthday anniversary in private Sunday, was serenaded by about 5,000 persons who jammed the east terrace of Windsor Castle to sing "Happy Birthday to You."

Otherwise it was a quiet day for the Queen, who attended Easter services in Windsor Castle's St. George's Chapel.

Appearing briefly at a window in the east terrace of the castle, the Queen, Prince Philip and their two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne, smiled and waved to the crowd massed around the castle to hear a concert by the bands of the Life Guards and the Grenadier Guards and to see the monarch.

Princess Anne seemed the most interested in the bands, darting from one window to another.

UNDUNTED BY 'FIZZLE' TAG ON RALLY

(From Times News Services)
QUEBEC CITY—Premier W. A. C. Bennett arrived here today confident of Social Credit's chances in the federal election and apparently undismayed by reports skeptical of the success of the party's first big foray into eastern politics.

He said here today Social Credit will win the balance of power in the June 10 federal voting, and will form the government after the next election four or five years hence.

Social Credit's opening guns were fired Thursday night at a much-ballyhooed rally in Toronto's Massey Hall, and some observers say they went off with a fizzle.

In Quebec to pay a "courtesy call" on Premier Maurice Duplessis, Mr. Bennett said at a news conference this morning that "the Liberal party will lose its present majority due to losses in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and Western Canada and the Social Credit party will gain the 40 seats more it needs to gain the balance of power."

Estimates of the number of persons who came to Toronto's Massey Hall Thursday night to hear the party's big lights—National Leader Solon Low, Alberta Premier E. C. Manning and Mr. Bennett—ranged from 1,200 to 1,800.

The Socials had bargained on an overflow crowd in the 2,500-seat Massey Hall.

Girls, Girls! Lose 10 Pounds On 9-Day Diet

Girls! Shed five or 10 pounds in a few days, and be lithe and slender as a spring reed.

"No need to feel and look as though you had stuffed too much," says Josephine Lowman.

"Often a woman is just 10 pounds away from a lovely figure."

Follow her nine-day diet to a youthful silhouette.

The first day's menus are shown tonight on Page 14. You'll find this is no "curl up and die" routine, but a practical, modern way to reduce while eating wholesome meals.

Good luck! And stick to it. Nine days isn't so long.

OL' VIC SAYS:

By reports from Toronto, Mister Bennett seems to be a very "promisin'" campaigner.

Why not combine th' current centennial project with th' next one, then th' council'll hev time t' make up their minds.

Looks like th' Middle East tends more t' be th' muddle East than th' model East.

New Crisis in Jordan As Iraqi Troops Move

Easter Death Toll 55 Traffic Mishaps Heavy in East

Traffic accidents were by far the biggest killers as warm weather across most of the country lured motorists by the thousands.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Thursday to midnight Sunday shows highway mishaps accounted for 37 dead. There were eight drownings and 10 fatalities from miscellaneous causes such as falls, asphyxiations and accidental shootings. No fire deaths were recorded, and industrial accidents are not included in the count.

ROYAL WEDDING RUMORED

A marriage is said to be in the making between the Duke of Kent, 21, and Crown Princess Beatrix, 18, of The Netherlands. Climax Expected In Next 24 Hours

By United Press

A quarrel within Jordan's patchwork cabinet and mounting pressure from both Syria and Egypt signalled a new crisis for King Hussein's government today—possibly within the next 24 hours.

Details of events inside Jordan were screened by strict military censorship and left further in doubt by a flood of unconfirmed dispatches originating both in Cairo newspapers and in the Egyptian government-owned Mid-East News Agency.

ON-THE-SPOT WITH ALSOP FROM JORDAN

The eyes of the world today are centred on Jordan, the little kingdom at the eastern end of the Mediterranean which might well become the focal point of a new world war. On Page 4 of this issue of The Times, Joseph Alsop, one of North America's top reporters, gives an on-the-spot explanation of the whole situation.

The Mid-East News Agency distributed a report Sunday evening that Iraqi troops had moved into Jordan and taken up positions near Naftara, a key point straddling the main route between Damascus, Syria, and Amman, capital of Jordan.

The report placed the Iraqi forces close to 3,000 Syrian troops which have been in Jordan since the eruption of the

Arab Move Would Involve Israel

Officials in both Amman and Baghdad promptly denied the report of Iraqi troop movements—which, if true, could presage a move by Jordan's larger Arab neighbors to take over her territories and divide them among themselves. Any such Arab move would be certain to bring Israel into the conflict.

On the question of diplomatic relations with Russia, Khalidi said only that any Soviet request on that subject "will be considered in the usual and proper manner."

The cabinet quarrel came in a difference of views between Jordanian Premier Hussein Khalidi and his predecessor, Suleiman Nabulsi, over the questions of alleged foreign interference in the country's affairs and relations with Russia.

In an exclusive interview in Amman today with United Press staff correspondent Joe Morris, Khalidi expanded on his views and further widened his split with Nabulsi over the alleged influence of American officials in the Jordanian crisis.

Khalidi said at a news conference Sunday that he "does not believe" a statement by Nabulsi that "foreign military attaches" and foreign diplomats were conspiring to mislead Hussein.

He said "Iraqi troops did not enter Jordan and would not enter without our consent and knowledge." This expression came a few hours after Khalil Ibrahim, Iraq's director general of national guidance, said in Baghdad that no Iraqi troops had been moved into Jordan.

Dulles Blasts Russ 'Despotism' In Satellites

NEW YORK (AP)—State Secretary Dulles bluntly told Russia today that the United States seeks "the liberation of the captive nations." He said "the pressures of liberty are rising" within the Soviet bloc.

U.S. had set an example to stimulate forces for freedom throughout the world, and he assured Soviet satellite countries that "we shall never make political settlement at their expense."

In an address prepared for the annual Associated Press luncheon, Dulles also appealed to the U.S. Congress and the American people to preserve the administration's foreign military and economic aid programs against those with "a zeal to economize." He evidently referred to some members of Congress.

He also expressed confidence that Soviet "threats," such as have recently been directed against allied powers in Europe because of their membership in the Atlantic Alliance, "will not disintegrate the collective defense systems of the free world."

Dulles' address had the full advance approval of President Eisenhower, who read it at his Augusta, Ga., vacation headquarters. Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Eisenhower also had discussed it by telephone with Dulles.

The goals gave Leeds a 3-1 victory over Sunderland and provided an outlet for the enthusiasm of hundreds of fans in the crowd of 30,000. They streamed across the ground at the final whistle, mobbed Charles and congratulated him on his transfer.

Charles is due to go to Italy Tuesday for a physical checkup before signing for the Italian club, Leeds and Juventus have agreed on a $54,000 transfer with an additional $10,000 for Charles.

Manchester United, English League champions for the second straight year, played five reserves today and still defeated Burnley 2-0.

The address was Dulles' first major review of U.S. foreign policy since last fall. Dulles said the question of how the U.S. should deal with Communist "despotism" is not an easy one to answer. The

SHE DRIVES, SHE FLIES —20 FEET UP

OTTAWA (CP)—Barbara Fraser, 30, of Ottawa ended up on telephone wires 20 feet above ground after she was thrown from a car that careened off a highway near here and cartwheeled along a ditch.

Police arrived about eight minutes later in time to see the woman tumble to the ground. She was not injured by the fall.

Estimates of the number of persons who came to Toronto's Massey Hall Thursday night to hear the party's big lights—National Leader Solon Low, Alberta Premier E. C. Manning and Mr. Bennett—ranged from 1,200 to 1,800.

The Socials had bargained on an overflow crowd in the 2,500-seat Massey Hall.

A loudspeaker installed outside the doors was not needed. Cost of extensive newspaper and radio advertising campaign to drum up interest in the rally is estimated at between $20,000 and $30,000.

The meeting was accompanied by the western Sacred trapings of musicians and entertainers, but one-quarter of the audience left before the show was over.

Party 'Turncoat' Says Got 'Bellyful' On Russia Visit

LONDON (Reuters)—Angry scenes and shouts of "swine" and "enemy" marked the last day of the British Communist Party conference here today.

The row stemmed from a speech Sunday by Professor Hyman Levy, mathematician and philosopher, who referred to the "terrible things" that have happened in Russia and said that during a two-week visit there "I got a bellyful to last me the rest of my life."

Declaring that British Communist leaders knew what was going on but kept it from the people, Levy said: "I am not going to be a member of a party that is going to be deluded by its leaders."

Repeating the speech, Andrew Rothstein, a British journalist, berated "spineless intellectuals."

In reference to the number of Communists who had written to or for the non-Communist press protesting events in Hungary last year, he said revisionists of the early days of communism did not have at their disposal the immense resources of the capitalist press.

Journalist Labelled 'Swine'

"The capitalist press was always ready to give hospitality to the enemies of the party," he said, "dissenting members," he said amid applause and shouts of disapproval.

At this point John McLoughlin, a shop steward who was condemned and dismissed for causing a major strike recently at a British automobile plant, shouted:

"You are the enemy, you lying old swine."

The party then went on to discuss a report on inner party democracy.

Christopher Hill, lecturer in English history at Oxford, moving a key amendment in the struggle by the reformers in the party to make their views heard, criticized a tendency towards authoritarianism, a distrust towards the rank-and-file and a fear of discussion in the party. He accused the party of living in a smug little world of its own inventions and said the most important speech so far made at the conference was when Levy condemned and dismissed for causing a major strike recently at a British automobile plant, shouted:

"You are the enemy, you lying old swine."

The party then went on to discuss a report on inner party democracy.

LPP 'Rebels' Out; Buck Solid Choice

TORONTO (CP)—Both policy and leadership appeared firmly in the grip of Tim Buck today as the sixth national convention of the Labor-Progressive party entered its climax with two of his enemies already eliminated from the national committee.

The convention's 169 delegates in closed session Sunday night voted for a new 51-member ruling body of Canadian communists. The result is to be announced today before the election for national leader and a final vote on party policy.

They are John Stewart, who quit as editor of the weekly Canadian Tribune last week because he said he was forced to adhere too closely to the party line, and Sam Lipshitz, former editor of the Canadian Jewish Weekly, who said before the convention began that policy changes must be accompanied by a change in leadership.

A party source said both men did not stand for re-election. Mr. Stewart could not be reached for comment and Mr. Lipshitz said he would wait until the convention ended before stating his reasons.

All other top rebels stood for re-election. These include J. B.

Salsberg, one-time member of the Ontario legislature who made a one-hour speech on behalf of the dissidents Saturday, and Stewart Smith, former Ontario party leader.

Their re-election is not assured. Both were ousted from the committee's executive last October after they asked that Mr. Buck be replaced by the collective leadership of a secretariat until the convention.

It is not even certain Mr. Buck will have an opponent in the election for national leader today. Members of the anti-Buck group would not say whether a dissident candidate would be nominated.

Delegates have yet to agree upon a new party policy, despite more than 20 speeches during day and night sessions since Friday, an LPP spokesman said. Before the convention ends today they must adopt a federal election platform and a new constitution, in addition to deciding whether to accept the contentious draft policy resolution submitted by the executive.

The meetings are closed to the press. It was not known when the party would make available news of the sessions.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Postman Bitten By 'Live' Cargo

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—For veteran letter carrier E. P. Gault it was his first "live" cargo in 23 years.

Gault was greeted with a harmless pinch on the hand by a live duck Saturday when he opened a street mailbox. He had the post office deliver the duck to its proper habitat at City Park Lake.

TOKYO (Reuters)—A ship collided with a bus near Tokyo.

The driver claimed the sailing vessel had deliberately rammed him, breaking a window, when he came alongside a jetty in Misaki City. Police had to be called to settle the argument which lasted four hours.

The driver and the skipper were each ordered to pay half the cost of the window.

LIMOGES, France (CP)—Because civic authorities were a little stuffy about it, baby Rosemonde Orsola went to her christening in her mother's arms instead of being carried by her father on a motorcycle along a tightrope tied to a church bell.

The father, circus star Raymond Orsola, had practiced for a week

whipping over a cable, 350 feet above the town's main square.

But today, after town authorities said absolutely no, Orsola attended the ceremony at ordinary ground level.

Orsola is the great-grandson of Blondin, the man who crossed Niagara Falls on a tightrope without the aid of a baby.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Mayor Edward Voorde got an overtime parking ticket while doing some last-minute shopping for an Easter tie. He took the $2 tie he had purchased back to the store, exchanged it for a $1 tie and put away the refund to pay his $1 parking ticket.

BENNETT

speech was reported to have been interrupted 47 times by applause, reporters present described the general tenor of the meeting as unfriendly.

About one-quarter of the audience comprised Social Credit members.

HECKLED

Mr. Bennett was heckled frequently but, as usual, was more than able to handle his own.

The party has thrown all its resources into the "on to Ottawa" campaign under the guidance of B.C. Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Lack of interest in the Toronto rally must have been a disappointment to Social Credit leaders, because they realize they must break into Ontario and Quebec to make any important gains.

Between them the two provinces have 160 seats in the 265-seat Commons.

But Premier Bennett appeared unconcerned at his news conference here.

Social Credit will win the next federal election in four or five years, he said.

50% TAX CUT

"When we come to power at Ottawa we shall reduce by 50 per cent the personal income tax to give each Canadian more take-home pay," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit will run candidates in most of Quebec's ridings.

He declined to comment on the status of L'Union des Electeurs, the Quebec group from which the national Social Credit party has dissociated itself.

L'Union des Electeurs, which describes itself as a Social Credit organization, ran candidates in all provincial ridings in the 1948 provincial election but failed to elect one. The group now limits its political activities to supporting some candidates of other parties, including Liberals.

Sacred Failure Cheers Tories, Says Pearkes

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, Progressive Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich in the last Parliament, says the failure of the Social Credit meeting in Toronto has given a "lift" to the Conservative party.

General Pearkes said here the lack of support for the meeting shows the public realizes the Conservatives are the only alternative to the Liberals.

Many who would have voted Social Credit now will vote Progressive Conservative because they will feel there is no eastern support for Social Credit, he said. The lack of support might not be significant in the east but would make a difference to voting in the west.

'Mac' Ducks Bob-a-Nobs From Behind Big Cigar

CHELMWOOD GATE, Eng. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan took refuge behind a few yards of real red tape Sunday when his wife, Lady Dorothy, opened their country home to Easter holiday-makers.

What a scramble there was as thousands of "bob-a-nobs" (one shilling a head) customers swarmed over the lawns of the "Macs" country home, peered through the windows of the prime minister's study and patted his numerous grandchildren on the head.

After signing one or two autographs, he tipped his hat, apologized to the visitors for the poor showing of the daffodils, stuffed an enormous Churchillian cigar in his mouth and ducked behind some red tape which cordoned off the summer house from the public.

In the summer-house he settled down to talking and smoking with his lunch guest, Lord Woolton, while an occasional

Canada Approves Move to Ease China Trade Ban

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada favors the current move to ease allied restrictions on trade with Communist China, federal trade authorities said today.

They were commenting on a Washington announcement that the U.S. has bowed to British and Japanese pressure and agreed to ease curbs on Red China trade.

Some Western countries have observed that more goods are banned from Red China than from the Soviet. This had the effect of diverting possible Chinese purchases from the West to Russia, authorities here said.

Canada is not likely to do much trade with Red China, but other Western countries might, the source said. Canada generally is in favor of bringing the restrictions against Red China in line with those against other Communist countries.

TOOK $6,000 IN YEAR

Boy Stole From Dad To 'Pay Off' Gang

NEW YORK (AP)—A frightened boy looted his father's Brooklyn grocery store of nearly $6,000 in a year to pay off a gang of teenagers, police say.

The boy, Raymond Quinones, 15, overcame his fear of reprisal and pleaded to police for help Saturday. Shortly before, his father said he told the family the store was losing so much money that he would have to close.

Police set a trap in the store, giving Raymond marked $10 bills and watching from behind a counter while he handed the money to one of the gang's collectors.

That led to the arrest of the alleged leader of the extortion racket, John J. Gebbia, 18, and three younger boys who served as collectors. Gebbia was charged with extortion, the three younger boys with juvenile delinquency.

Raymond said the youths approached him in April, 1956, and demanded weekly payments from the grocery. The payments ranged from $5 to $15 at first. Recently they ran to $80 a week. Raymond said two of the gang pressed a knife to his throat on one occasion and threatened: "If you don't give us money we will kill your mother or sister."

Dog Won't Leave Scene Where Master Missing

STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—For nearly a week a big Labrador retriever has kept a vigil on the bank of the Kaministiquia River near here where Alexander McPhee, his four-year-old master, is believed to have been drowned.

A stray that wandered on to the McPhee farm a year ago, the dog was named Butch and became the boy's constant companion. Alexander disappeared last Monday.

His tracks were traced to the river bank. Dragging operations have been under way since.

FAST TIME SCHEDULES FOR BLACK BALL, TCA

Gardeners, golfers, ballplayers and handymen take note: This is your last week of winter hibernation.

No more lazy evenings sprawled in front of the TV. Daylight saving goes into operation at midnight Saturday, bringing with it an extra hour in the evenings to tackle odd jobs around the yard or head for the ballpark.

There'll be the usual gripes from the more hardy who'll be rising at 6 a.m. in darkness, but daylight saving will be here to stay until the end of September.

If you're going on a trip, transportation schedules will have to be double-checked.

Some companies, such as CPR and CNR steamships and railways, will stay on Standard. Trans-Canada Air Lines and Black Ball Ferries will shift over to fast time.

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about the Sasquatch. Fortunately, I do not know much about the Sasquatch. Among things I do not know about the Sasquatch is, how to spell them.

(Presuming they are plural.) But (fortunately) the proof-readers of this newspaper know how to spell Sasquatch, just as they know how to spell Cadborosaurus and Rumpelstiltskin.

Which gives me a chance to tell all I know about the Sasquatch.

The first thing I know about the Sasquatch is, when the Italian gentleman who adopted the Spanish name of Juan de Fuca first sailed down the Strait of the same name, he almost landed in the inner harbor.

Legend has it that Juan de Fuca did not land because he was frightened by the appearance of the Sasquatch on the lawn below the Legislative Buildings.

According to legend, he took Juan look at them, and vanished.

But modern day historians have a different version: they state that Juan de Fuca's vessel veered off to avoid fouling a garbage scow, and in so doing, inadvertently changed course and returned to Spain.

Or was it Italy.

Little more was heard of the Sasquatch until Captain Cook's voyage of exploration, which brought him close to what is now Victoria.

Captain Cook, having had trouble with the products of the alley aboard, sent a boat to shore to find a new chef.

The boat was greeted by a competent-looking Sasquatch, who, when asked, replied, "yes, I can cook."

So the Sasquatch climbed into the boat (luckily it was a large one) and was taken to Captain Cook's ship.

And the first thing Captain Cook asked for was a tomato and lettuce sandwich without mayonnaise, but the Sasquatch believed in doing things in a big way, so he made Captain Cook a tomato and lettuce sandwich WITH mayonnaise—no mean feat, considering neither tomatoes, lettuce, nor mayonnaise had yet been invented.

When the Captain remonstrated with the Sasquatch, the Sasquatch said:

"You Captain?"

"Yes," replied the Captain.

"You Cook," continued the Sasquatch.

"Yes, I'm Captain," was the reply. "I'm Cook."

"You captain, you cook," advised the Sasquatch.

So Capt. Cook went away, and things have never been quite the same in the Royal Navy.

This, fortunately, is all I know about the Sasquatch.

Educator Would Weed Out Poor Students

Enrolment at most North American universities will be doubled over the next 13 years unless selective methods are introduced.

That is the opinion of university officials of the Western Association of College and University Business Officers at the Empress Hotel.

"Serious overcrowding will develop over the next few years unless the entry of students is limited by their ability and aptitude," said William J. Bartz, bursar at Idaho State College.

MANY AGREE

"Many of my colleagues share this view. The crucial issue is whether we should accept all students wanting university education, or admit only those of proven ability."

Mr. Bartz was interested in the suggestion from many quarters that Victoria College should be given the status of a university to relieve overcrowding at the University of British Columbia.

"We had a parallel case in Idaho," he said. "Until 10 years ago Idaho State College was just a training ground for the University of Idaho. Now we have university status and we have relieved much of the overcrowding at the senior university."

Prof. E. D. MacPhee, dean of commerce and business administration at UBC, welcomed some 125 officers and wives from colleges and universities in the Pacific Northwest when the four-day conference opened today.

Harry E. Brakebill, business manager of San Francisco State College, said the central idea behind the organization is the exchange of administrative ideas.

Speed-Up on Malahat Called 'Pointless'

Any attempt to speed up work on the Malahat road project would be pointless at present, Campbell-Bennett Construction Co. director, Robert Campbell, told the Times today from Vancouver.

This is because dirt cannot yet be moved due to wet weather, he said.

He was answering Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist trade group chairman Sam Lane, who Saturday called for a 24-hour shift of workers to get the scenic route into condition for the peak of the tourist season.

"If we had speeded up the work, the public couldn't have got through the mud, as this is not a good dirt-moving spring," said Mr. Campbell.

"Dirt and water don't mix." He said the 24-hour working suggestion "is all very good, but it's a small matter of cost."

New 'Home' for Scots Debt-Free, Naturally

High point in a campaign of St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society to have a hall of its own came today with the preparations for the laying of the cornerstone by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross at 4 p.m.

Site of the ceremony is at the corner of McBride Avenue and Field Street, where the cement-block foundation of the 80 by 90-foot building is nearing completion.

$50,000 The project, to cost $50,000, actually is an undertaking being shared by a company whose shareholders are Scottish societies and the individual members of the societies.

Leading figure is James Marrs, society president, who was instrumental in bringing Scottish entertainer Robert Wilson for his first local concert years ago.

Profits from this and subsequent shows formed the nucleus of a hall fund and, according to Dave Murray, an official of the company, "we've managed to pay cash for everything to date."

One excellent source of both material and income was a two-storey barrack block at Patricia Bay Airport which the society purchased. Men members took the building apart, piece by piece, and the ladies of the society converted the lumber into

Driver Faces Charge; 12 Hurt Over Holiday

A Saanich police car, in charge of deputy chief Jack Hamilton, was damaged to the extent of about $700 in a rear-end collision on Shelbourne at 2 a.m. Sunday.

Police said the patrol car was stopped at the roadside facing north at Earlston while the deputy checked another car.

A small car approaching from the south and driven by William James Cook, Sidney, collided with the right rear of the police car, sending it into the rear of the other car, which was not damaged.

Cook was taken with minor chest injury to HMCS Naden Hospital and his passengers, Sharon Polson, 18, and Mary Lamoureux, both of 5024 Patricia Bay Highway, were treated at Jubilee Hospital for minor abrasions.

CHARGED Police charged Cook with careless driving.

Holiday weekend traffic accidents sent 12 persons to hospital for treatment of injuries ranging from minor cuts to head injuries and possible fractures.

Following a two-car crash on the Malahat about 2 p.m. Sunday, Norman Bennett, 54, of Vancouver, and Dave Dumas, 23, of Alberni, were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Bennett is in fair condition with wrist and hip injuries, the hospital reported. Dumas, with a hip injury, is in fairly good condition.

Mrs. Iris Stevens, 34, 4922 Cordova Bay, received head injuries when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a power pole on Bay about 90 feet east of Rock Bay at 3.30 a.m. Sunday.

GOOD CONDITION She was taken to St. Joseph's where her condition is reported as good.

Driver was Ernest A. Stevens, of the same address, who was uninjured.

Also treated at St. Joseph's was Yvonne Sullivan, 17, who received facial cuts in a minor mishap on Whiffin Spit Road, Sooke, at about 2 a.m. Sunday.

At 1.55 a.m. Sunday, Harvey B. Chapman, 18, 1739 Bay, arrived at St. Joseph's to be treated for a slight elbow injury received when his car collided

FESTIVAL OPENS SUNDAY

5,000 Visitors For Spring Fete

More than 5,000 people, the largest influx of visitors to come to Victoria at this time of the year, are expected for the city's two-week Springtime Festival opening next Sunday.

B. J. Tennyson, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce festival committee, said visitors will be coming for the festival from as far east as Port Arthur, Ont., and from all parts of the western United States.

"Starting next Sunday visitors will start pouring into Victoria," he said. "They are coming here by rail, ship and plane."

Many hotels and auto courts report they are booked heavily for the two festival weeks.

The influx of visitors will be augmented with the arrival of 1,500 delegates for a convention of the Prudential Insurance Corp. of America which opens at the Empress Hotel on May 1.

The Victoria Horticultural Society reported over 700 visitors are expected for its four-day garden festival starting on May 1.

The festival, which features tours of some of the city's best private gardens, is one of the big attractions of the city's springtime fete.

Major G. A. Wiggan, secretary of the society, said about 300 visitors are expected to arrive in Victoria on special buses from various centres in Washington and Oregon. This did not include hundreds of others who will be arriving by plane and in private cars.

EXCURSION RATES The CPR and CNR said special excursion rates for the festival also will draw a large number of visitors from the three Prairie provinces.

The festival will be preceded by the annual spring flower show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Society at the Crystal Garden on Friday and Saturday.

Some visitors will be arriving in advance to take in the colorful show—the largest of its kind in North America. The show will feature plants which have never been exhibited anywhere on this continent.

In conjunction with the Springtime Festival, the CPR Steamships will start its summer run between Victoria and Port Angeles Sunday.

The Princess Elizabeth, to make the first run of the year between Port Angeles and Victoria, will become a "garden festival" ship.

FIREBOAT DISPLAY It will be greeted by a fireboat display staged by a tug of the Island Tug and Barge Ltd. in Victoria Harbor. The ship will arrive here at 1.20 p.m. daylight saving time.

The Victoria Girls' Drill Team and a High School band will be on hand to greet the visitors on the Elizabeth.

To mark the opening of the festival and the arrival of the Princess Elizabeth, Christ Church Cathedral will ring a peal of bells at 1.30 Sunday.

The visitors will have plenty of attractions during their stay in Victoria.

Some of the festival events include the "Chocolate Soldier" by the Gilbert and Sullivan Society at the Royal Theatre on April 29 through May 1, and the Greater Victoria musical festival on May 7.

Another major event is a Folk Festival on May 3. It will feature singing and dancing by German, Norwegian, Swedish, Hungarian, Scottish and Ukrainian groups.

There also will be the Western Square Dance Jamboree featuring some 600 dancers and 24 clubs in this area.

Fibreglass Insulated Bags Keep Food Hot or Cold

By PENNY SAVER

If you want the food kept hot, it stays hot; if you want it cold, it stays cold. Yes, this is a wonderful fibreglass insulated case that holds food or drink for your summertime or wintertime outings. The case, with comfortable carrying handle is of adaptable plastic in bright yellow, red or blue. It can be wiped clean with a damp cloth in a jiffy. The top has a zipper that runs the full length of the case, so it is easy to get articles out. The cases are big enough to hold two thermos bottles as well as the miscellaneous food. This is a buy that will be appreciated more and more everytime you use it, for it will go everywhere with you. The price is $4.95.

Any green-thumbed youngsters in the house? Now is the perfect time to introduce the children to gardening; the weather is wonderful and the ground just right. Even the smallest members of the household can have fun in a little garden plot, for toy manufacturers have now come up with miniature plastic garden tools that are colorful, usable and non-breakable. You can bend, drop or knock over the little wheelbarrow or the rake, hoe or shovel and they'll come up like new. You can even wash them when the day's play is through. The wheelbarrow even has a rubber wheel, just like a large one, so Junior will love it. The complete set sells for $1.19.

More toys . . . these are meant especially for little boys and little tomboys who love to play cowboys and Indians. What else, but bow and arrow sets! Of course, the arrows have harmless suction rubber tips on them, so no eyes will be endangered. War whoops and yells will resound in the play yard, and the children will have a wonderful time with these sets, selling for 59c. Included is a bow and three arrows, all brightly colored.

A small item for mother's little helper is a new straw broom, a miniature of mother's. Sturdy and definitely useful, these brooms are also handy to carry in the car for quick sweep-out jobs. The price is 59c.

Would you like to know where I found these items mentioned today? Call me at 2-3131 and I'll gladly tell you where I shopped.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Even your best friend should not tell you:

I find it very embarrassing if a woman at a party informs me that I have a runner in my stocking that I hadn't noticed. I don't think it kind or gracious to do this to a person. To tell you that your slip shows is different, because you can retire for a moment and fix it. But if you go and mend your stocking, it's even more noticeable than the runner itself. Do you agree?

Louise Davis answers: Yes, I do. It is very unkind to tell the runner-wearer, for there is nothing that she can do about it. From that moment on, she is usually self-conscious, uncomfortable and embarrassed. If she were totally unaware of her runner, she would enjoy herself much more at a party or anywhere else. But after being told about it, she tries desperately to hide it from anyone else. Unless a woman makes a point of displaying her shapely legs, how many people at a party would notice a runner? If they do, it's quickly forgotten. A runner in a stocking isn't going to ruin any party, nor should it ruin the enjoyable time of the wearer. No one is going to say that Jane Brown is slovenly. Every woman knows that it can happen to her, for it already has happened many times in her life. People who call attention to a runner mean well, but, in the final analysis, they are thoughtless.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

In 9 Days a New You—If You Follow this Diet

With spring bursting out all over with a new look, why don't we? Why not approach life with a more vibrant viewpoint? A loss of even a few pounds, which makes us feel stuffy and look as though we had stuffed too much, would be a great help!

Often a woman is just 10 pounds away from a lovely figure. Since she is not greatly overweight she is apt to allow these 10 extra pounds to linger on. This is too bad because these can make the difference between a youthful silhouette and one which appears middle aged.

Each spring I bring you my 9-Day Reducing Diet. In nine short days you can lose from five to 10 pounds if you follow the menus.

BREAKFAST

Half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, black coffee.

MID MORNING

Glass of tomato juice.

LUNCHEON

Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing, 1 slice lamb roast (don't eat the fat), one glass skimmed milk, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

DINNER

One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces), one-half cup squash (yellow preferable), one-half cup string beans, one glass skimmed milk, one apple.

All the menus will appear in this column for nine days. So come on—there's no excuse for missing the chance to lose 10 pounds!

If you would like to have my 9-Day Diet booklet send 10 cents and a stamped, self addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

"Where Your Fashion Dollar Brings Greater Satisfaction"

Party 'Turncoat' Says Got 'Bellyful' On Russia Visit

LONDON (Reuters)—Angry scenes and shouts of "swine" and "enemy" marked the last day of the British Communist Party conference here today.

The row stemmed from a speech Sunday by Professor Hyman Levy, mathematician and philosopher, who referred to the "terrible things" that have happened in Russia and said that during a two-week visit there "I got a bellyful to last me the rest of my life."

Declaring that British Communist leaders knew what was going on but kept it from the people, Levy said: "I am not going to be a member of a party that is going to be deluded by its leaders."

Repeating the speech, Andrew Rothstein, a British journalist, berated "spineless intellectuals."

In reference to the number of Communists who had written to or for the non-Communist press protesting events in Hungary last year, he said revisionists of the early days of communism did not have at their disposal the immense resources of the capitalist press.

Journalist Labelled 'Swine'

"The capitalist press was always ready to give hospitality to the enemies of the party, to dissenting members," he said amid applause and shouts of disapproval.

At this point John McLoughlin, a shop steward who was condemned and dismissed for causing a major strike recently at a British automobile plant, shouted:

"You are the enemy, you lying old swine."

The party then went on to discuss a report on inner party democracy.

Christopher Hill, lecturer in English history at Oxford, moving a key amendment in the struggle by the reformers in the party to make their views heard, criticized a tendency towards authoritarianism, "a distrust towards the rank-and-file and a fear of discussion in the party."

He accused the party of living in a smug little world of its own inventions and said the most important speech so far made at the conference was when Levy "let some fresh air into this world."

The national executive, he said, considered that the party now numbering 27,000, had lost only a handful of members because of the events in Hungary. But 7,000 had left.

"If three or more handfuls of that size were to go there would not be a party," he said. Hill added that the leadership should not be made a scapegoat.

"We are all responsible for the state the party has got into."

LPP 'Rebels' Out; Buck Solid Choice

TORONTO (CP)—Both policy and leadership appeared firmly in the grip of Tim Buck today as the sixth national convention of the Labor-Progressive party entered its climax with two of his enemies already eliminated from the national committee.

The convention's 169 delegates in closed session Sunday night voted for a new 51-member ruling body of Canadian communism. The result is to be announced today before the election for national leader and a final vote on party policy.

They are John Stewart, who quit as editor of the weekly Canadian Tribune last week because he said he was forced to adhere too closely to the party line, and Sam Lipshitz, former editor of the Canadian Jewish Weekly, who said before the convention began that policy changes must be accompanied by a change in leadership.

A party source said both men did not stand for re-election. Mr. Stewart could not be reached for comment and Mr. Lipshitz said he would wait until the convention ended before stating his reasons.

All other top rebels stood for re-election. These include J. B. Salsberg, one-time member of the Ontario legislature who made a one-hour speech on behalf of the dissidents Saturday, and Stewart Smith, former Ontario party leader.

Their re-election is not assured. Both were ousted from the committee's executive last October after they asked that Mr. Buck be replaced by the collective leadership of a secretariat until the convention.

It is not even certain Mr. Buck will have an opponent in the election for national leader today. Members of the anti-Buck group would not say whether a dissident candidate would be nominated.

Delegates have yet to agree upon a new party policy, despite more than 20 speeches during Friday and night sessions since Friday, an LPP spokesman said. Before the convention ends today they must adopt a federal election platform and a new constitution, in addition to deciding whether to accept the contentious draft policy resolution submitted by the executive.

The meetings are closed to the press. It was not known when the party would make available news of the sessions.

Sacred Failure Cheers Tories, Says Pearkes

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada favors the current move to ease allied restrictions on trade with Communist China, federal trade authorities said today.

They were commenting on a Washington announcement that the U.S. has bowed to British and Japanese pressure and agreed to ease curbs on Red China trade.

Some Western countries have observed that more goods are banned from Red China than from the Soviet. This had the effect of diverting possible Chinese purchases from the West to Russia, authorities here said.

Canada is not likely to do much trade with Red China, but other Western countries might, the source said. Canada generally is in favor of bringing the restrictions against Red China in line with those against other Communist countries.

General Pearkes said here the lack of support for the meeting shows the public realizes the Conservatives are the only alternative to the Liberals.

Many who would have voted Social Credit now will vote Progressive Conservative because they will feel there is no eastern support for Social Credit, he said. The lack of support might not be significant in the east but would make a difference to voting in the west.

Between them the two provinces have 160 seats in the 265-seat Commons.

But Premier Bennett appeared unconcerned at his news conference here.

Social Credit will win the next federal election in four or five years, he said.

50% TAX CUT

"When we come to power at Ottawa we shall reduce by 50 per cent the personal income tax to give each Canadian more take-home pay," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said Social Credit will run candidates in most of Quebec's ridings.

He declined to comment on the status of L'Union des Electeurs, the Quebec group from which the national Social Credit party has dissociated itself.

L'Union des Electeurs, which describes itself as a Social Credit organization, ran candidates in all provincial ridings in the 1948 provincial election but failed to elect one. The group now limits its political activities to supporting some candidates of other parties, including Liberals.

After signing one or two autographs, he tipped his hat, apologized to the visitors for the poor showing of the daffodils, stuffed, an enormous Churchillian cigar in his mouth and ducked behind some red tape which cordoned off the summer house from the public.

In the summer house he settled down to talking and smoking with his lunch guest, Lord Woolton, while an occasional stray visitor stared at them through a bush or from behind a tree.

The rest of the Macmillans—and there were dozens of them, what with sons and daughters and sons-in-law and daughters-in-law and grandchildren—ran themselves to a frazzle helping Lady Dorothy sell tickets and show folks around. In tweed skirt, beige sweater and sensible shoes, Lady Dorothy organized her crew, gave advice on how to sell the tickets faster.

"Rattle the money," she told a six-year-old grandson. "It attracts attention."

All the money was going to two of Lady Dorothy's favorite charities. It was the first time the Macmillan home, with its fine gardens, had been opened to the public since 1941.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate sub-committee said today that Joseph M. Frankenstein, a former Austrian baron and U.S. government employee, has been notified by the state department that security risk charges against him and his wife have been wiped off its records.

STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—For nearly a week a big Labrador retriever has kept a vigil on the bank of the Kaministiquia River near here where Alexander McPhee, his four-year-old master, is believed to have been drowned.

A stray that wandered on to the McPhee farm a year ago, the dog was named Butch and became the boy's constant companion. Alexander disappeared last Monday.

His tracks were traced to the river bank. Dragging operations have been under way since.

The dog refuses to leave the river bank in the area 18 miles west of Port Arthur. Sometimes it goes out in boats with the police but usually just sits on the bank and stares at the water.

TOOK $6,000 IN YEAR

Boy Stole From Dad To 'Pay Off' Gang

NEW YORK (AP)—A frightened boy looted his father's Brooklyn grocery store of nearly $6,000 in a year to pay off a gang of teen-agers, police say.

The boy, Raymond Quinones, 15, overcame his fear of reprisal and pleaded to police for help Saturday. Shortly before, his father said he told the family the store was losing so much money that he would have to close.

Police set a trap in the store, giving Raymond marked $10 bills and watching from behind a counter while he handed the money to one of the gang's collectors.

That led to the arrest of the alleged leader of the extortion racket, John J. Gebbia, 18, and three younger boys who served as collectors. Gebbia was charged with extortion, the three younger boys with juvenile delinquency.

Raymond said the youths approached him in April, 1956, and demanded weekly payments from the grocery. The payments ranged from $5 to $15 at first. Recently they ran to $80 a week.

Raymond said two of the gang pressed a knife to his throat on one occasion and threatened: "If you don't give us money we will kill your mother or sister."

Police set a trap in the store, giving Raymond marked $10 bills and watching from behind a counter while he handed the money to one of the gang's collectors.

That led to the arrest of the alleged leader of the extortion racket, John J. Gebbia, 18, and three younger boys who served as collectors. Gebbia was charged with extortion, the three younger boys with juvenile delinquency.

Raymond said the youths approached him in April, 1956, and demanded weekly payments from the grocery. The payments ranged from $5 to $15 at first. Recently they ran to $80 a week.

Raymond said two of the gang pressed a knife to his throat on one occasion and threatened: "If you don't give us money we will kill your mother or sister."

NEW-York (AP)—A frightened boy looted his father's Brooklyn grocery store of nearly $6,000 in a year to pay off a gang of teen-agers, police say.

The boy, Raymond Quinones, 15, overcame his fear of reprisal and pleaded to police for help Saturday. Shortly before, his father said he told the family the store was losing so much money that he would have to close.

Police set a trap in the store, giving Raymond marked $10 bills and watching from behind a counter while he handed the money to one of the gang's collectors.

That led to the arrest of the alleged leader of the extortion racket

RCAP Studying A-Jet Training

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF is giving serious consideration to the introduction of all-jet training.

Under the present training system, pilots do their first flying on the light Chipmunk.

How to KEEP FIT after 50

In the old days fifty seemed the signal to slow down—take things easy—eat less, get more rest. It's still good advice. But these days you can face fifty with many interesting and active years ahead—active, that is, if you can avoid backache and the "wind-out" feeling due to kidney and bladder disorders, that often develop around that age. For more than 60 years DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS have been helping men and women of all ages to keep kidneys and bladder in good order, helping them to feel better, to work better, and get more fun out of life. If you are approaching fifty, or past it, DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS may help you, too. You can depend on DODD'S.

There is no provision in this year's defence budget for purchase of jet trainers other than the T-33 and the RCAF is not facing an immediate decision in the matter.

The RCAF has been looking at four jet trainers in particular but has not made up its mind which one to buy. The RCAF uses the Hunting Percival jet Provost trainer. It cruises at 330 miles an hour but has a landing speed of only 73 miles an hour.

Recently the first 20 pilots in the world to learn to fly on jet aircraft alone received their RCAF wings.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, April 21st — The Butcher, the Banker and me... that's the way I like to figure things out. I'm making sure to include myself with my creditors by adding a set sum to my "special purpose" account at the BANK OF MONTREAL. I've learned that it's the best way to get the things I really want. So far, this plan has paved the way for a number of useful purchases, including a portable TV set for the summer cottage and the down-payment on a new piano for the children's music lessons. And right now my savings account can provide me with a fresh Spring wardrobe and, come December next, there should be enough to take care of Christmas needs nicely. So next payday make sure to include your B of M "special purpose" savings account with your creditors... and you'll be able to meet opportunity when it comes your way.

LET ME SEND YOU... FREE... a copy of the beautifully illustrated book I've just written for the CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PLUMBING AND HEATING. It's called "Rooms I'd Like to Live With." We hope this book will be your idea Starter... for the best in modern living can be yours at a cost that is considerably lower than many of us realize. Turn your home into the glamorous place it can be. So many of us have a house that we love—but it's not the home of our dreams. I know you will find many clues in this book for your happy exploration in the thrilling world of Home Modernization. Do write for your FREE COPY of "Rooms I'd Like to Live With", to C.I.P.H., Dept. 18, 630 Dorchester West, Montreal.

NO BABY NEED SUFFER... the discomfort and pain of Diaper Rash and, now, DIAPARENE can keep baby completely clear when used regularly. There are four Diaparene Products: Powder, Lotion, Ointment and Rinse. Diaparene Powder and Lotion will medically prevent chafing and irritation, and will ward off Diaper Rash. Diaparene Ointment should be applied liberally, if baby's skin is already affected. This wonderful ointment will clear up the most stubborn Diaper Rash. Diaparene Rinse, when added to the final rinse water, will prevent when added to the final rinse water before it gets started!

medicate the diapers, stopping Diaper Rash before it gets started!

THESE BRIGHT APRIL MORNINGS make the children hungrier than ever, don't they? Then serve them the scrumptious—and nutritious—Lipton Green Pea Soup often. And do enjoy it for your family meals too—for believe me you'll never taste a better green pea soup! It's got a delicate "smoky" flavor that's most appealing, and a smooth texture that's a delight to the taste. Only takes minutes to make, too! Simply add the contents of the Lipton package to cold water... simmer... and serve. I really urge you to try this new LIPTON GREEN PEA SOUP. We all enjoy it, at our house!

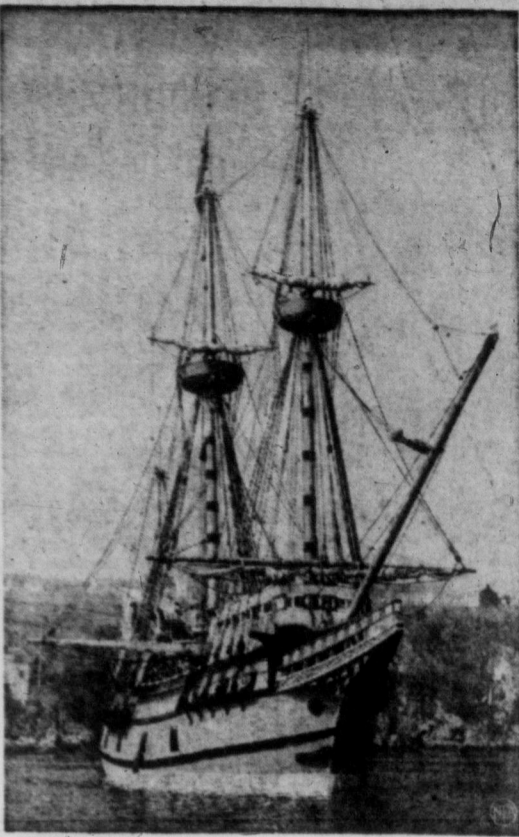

SECRET OF A GOOD COOK... I've found, time and time again, is a knack with flavoring. That's why so many of the best cooks I know use SHIRIFF'S FLAVORING EXTRACTS. Each one has the perfume to associate with Shirriff's—the fresh, true flavor that keeps its strength because it's pure. And the great variety of flavors—17 of keeping your hands lovely—if you'll just use it constantly after exposure to work—water—weather. And buy the large household size, with the handy dispenser—both for only 60¢. For with just a quick thumb-pressure you have exactly the right amount to rub vigorously into your hands. Do see that the children use it, too!

THE PURPLE HYACINTHS are in bloom again! Is there any delight greater than welcoming your spring bulbs every year? Only be careful to protect your pretty Campana's ITALIAN BALM every time you have been working—or out of doors. This long-time favorite is a certain-sure means of keeping your hands lovely—if you'll just use it constantly after exposure to work—water—weather. And buy the large household size, with the handy dispenser—both for only 60¢. For with just a quick thumb-pressure you have exactly the right amount to rub vigorously into your hands. Do see that the children use it, too!

"THEY'RE TERRIFIC!" Just heard that glad cry from a teenager who's been miserable about her bad hair. I told her about delicious tasting AYDS and the Ayds Plan—just as I've been telling you. She has been using them—and ten pounds have gone already! Nothing else worked for her—because she's a healthy, hungry girl who can't stick to a diet! But by taking an Ayds before meals, as directed, her appetite has been just naturally curbed. She eats less—and the pounds are melting! There's no nervousness, no sleeplessness or other "side-effects" either. You'll find Ayds and the Ayds Plan "Terrific," too! At all drug counters.

NO BIRD OUTSIDE... is happier or livelier than our beautiful budgie, Sir Isaac. He's keeping in the pink of condition, with the 5 Basic BROCK'S Budgie Products, one of which is Brock's Budgie Gravel, a clear white quartz to help your budgie grind and digest his food. Brock fed budgies are healthy and happy, always full of fun.

WHEN I REACH IN THE FRIG for the always-ready package of BLUE BONNET MARGARINE... I do it with a sense of real satisfaction—knowing that I'm going to give my family the all-important nutritive values we have to look for so carefully. The sunny-sweet flavor of Blue Bonnet makes it so good when it's a piping hot baked potato—or beaten into your mashed potatoes till they are frothy white! Put a pat on your vegetables before you set them on the table. Use Blue Bonnet for muffins, hot biscuits—as the daily spread for toast, sandwiches and snacks. Blue Bonnet is the same high quality, but is a better bargain than ever at the new low price!

Mayflower Making Steady 4 Knots

ST. KEVERNE, England (AP)—Mayflower II, replica of the 17th century Pilgrim Fathers' ship, sailed out of sight of the English coast today as she headed for the United States.

Soon after dawn the little wooden sailing vessel was spotted by the coast guard 15 miles out from the Lizard, southernmost point of England's coast. Half an hour later she was out of sight.

A coast guard officer said "on her course she has seen the last land until she approaches her destination."

The ship left Plymouth, England, Saturday, bound for Plymouth, Mass. For more than 24 hours she dawdled in the English Channel with hardly a breath of wind to fill her sails.

HAS FULL SAILS

But the 180-ton Mayflower, with a crew of 32 aboard, had "her sails full set" today, the coast guard said.

There was a light northerly wind, and the ship appeared to be making a steady three or four knots.

Skipper Alan Villiers, Australian seafarer, hopes to land the ship in Massachusetts in about six weeks. He has said it all depends on weather conditions in the Atlantic.

The journey around the Lizard and into the open sea was considered one of the Mayflower's toughest jobs, because of the confusing tides and winds in the area.

SKIPPER—Capt. Alan Villiers, veteran Australian seafarer and one of the last masters in the art of sail, is at the helm of Mayflower II as she sails for the United States. The voyage may take four to six weeks.

CABIN BOY—Only American member of the crew of the Mayflower II is Joseph Meany, 17, of Waltham, Mass. He was chosen from among thousands who entered a contest sponsored for members by the Boys' Clubs of America.

LOST IN GOV'T HOUSE FIRE

Artist Will Re-Do Paintings for Ross

Two oil paintings lost in the Government House fire last Monday will be repainted by the same artist.

Polish-born Gina Greinert of Vancouver said she will do the canvases again without fee.

The first was a portrait of former Lieutenant-Governor Dr. T. R. McInnes, and the second a large canvas of a Government House garden party last year. The portrait hung in the main hall gallery and the other in an upstairs suite.

The McInnes portrait was unveiled in February at the State Ball at the opening of the legislature.

Dr. McInnes served from 1897 to 1900, when he was ousted from office for dabbling in politics, and his picture had never been included in the gallery of governors.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross decided to let by-gones be by-gones and commissioned Mrs. Greinert to do the painting. All portraits in the gallery had been cleaned and re-lighted by Mr. Ross shortly before the disastrous fire when all canvases were lost.

Mrs. Greinert has also been commissioned to paint the portrait of Arthur Edward Kennedy, a colonial governor, who was also missing from the gallery.

"The artist will repaint the two portraits from sketches and colored photographs of the completed original.

Expressing sympathy for the loss sustained by Lieutenant-Governor Ross, Mrs. Greinert said:

"I lost so many of my treasured possessions in my Warsaw studio when it was burned down during the war that I understand the terrible loss he must feel."

'AFRAID OF GAS'

Anonymous Confession In Car Killing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An anonymous "confession" to the savage hit-run killing of Lloyd V. Stephens was received by police Saturday.

The typewritten letter, mailed in Berkeley, Calif., said he wanted to surrender but was "afraid I will go to the gas chamber."

"I will turn myself in if you will promise to let me off as easily as you can."

The letter did not mention the frenzied efforts of the hit-run driver to shake Stephens' body loose from the car after the 62-year-old machinist was struck Sunday night at a street intersection.

Stephens was dragged for three blocks while the automobile swerved and its tires squealed in a series of violent starts and stops.

Stephens might have survived had the driver stopped when the car hit him, doctors said.

Police were aware the letter might be the work of a crank.

Lt. Edward Moody, of the Accident Investigation Bureau immediately issued a call for the writer to surrender.

Moody conferred with Dist. Atty. Thomas C. Lynch, who said, "This is not a first-degree murder of fence. The writer need not be afraid of the gas chamber."
